"We learn from history—
"We learn from history that men never learn anything from history."
As Bernard Shaw adds, "That's not my own; it's Hegel."

Happily, it looks as though the rest of the world would object to Uncle Sam entering the World Court with his fingers crossed, so we may be saved in spite of the Senate.

The Official Spokesman's defense of coolidgeism gives Martin Madden's figures the stamp of authenticity.

For one dollar in Paris yesterday
an American could buy everything but the respect and courtesy of the people for whom, but nine short years ago, he crossed the sea to save France from her deadliest enemy.

The skinny flapper's on her way.
Hurray!
The undernourished blonde's passe
Today.
The buxom lass is tout a fait—We'll say!
Dimples and Curves! we'll get you yet—

Enter the modern girl—brunette!
Or maybe a red-headed one to pet.
And play.

The astute inventor of feminine pudricitude presents the 1926
model, and the "perfect 32," who has to be forcibly fed, makes way
for the kind of girl Walter Scott immortalized in a line—"her body
was as round as the hole of a tree."
At this rate we may yet live to have our hurray with a couple of hips.

"False, cruel, disappointed, stung to the heart,
France quits the warrior's for the assassin's part."

Rough words, those of William Cowper, bitter words—let us not speak them, yet; but they spring to mind as we read the shameful news
of American tourists being mobbed in the streets of Paris. If the boulevard press continues to incite
the Apache by August there'll be something spilt over there besides wine and insults. Fi donc!

If France has a fourth-rate degenerate Bourbon prince she'd do well to make an Emperor out of him in place of the tenth-rate politicians
who are now running the country.

As the franc goes to two cents
one dimly sees behind the stage of puppet-politics the sinister hand that pulls the wires in what is beginning to look like a well-staged drama.

Indignant subscriber objects to Mr. Borah's one-man battle against nullification, and he might have gone further and reminded the Senator that the American people have always nullified anything in the Constitution they didn't want to submit to, as, for example, when Public Opinion reversed the Supreme Court in the Dred Scott case.

Did the "Free States" accept that interpretation of the Constitution?
—yep, in the same way that New York has accepted the Eighteenth amendment. The "Underground Railroad" promoter was the "boot-legger" of the Fifities. When you have outgrown an old suit you don't necessarily repair it or sell it or give it away, you simply hang it in the closet and in time you forget you ever owned it.

Jim Reed leaves for Chicago and the Pandora's strong-box of the Illinois primary will be opened next week.

The spectacle of the Coolidge Cabinet being bawled out by cornered radicals from 11 Republican States doubtless will inspire Pat Harrison to try to beat Bill Oldfield to it in sweeping the country in 1928.

They've caught something for the Zoo.
Something new;
Spring a big surprise on you,
Me too!

Yes, they caught it for the show,
Caught a pretty galago,
And they didn't let it go,
Let it go, galago!

Here's your hat, Mr. Fenning, what's your hurry?

World-wide cooperation of foreign governments in the enforcement of our Eighteenth amendment may yet prove the truth of the monarchical sneer that democracy is a failure.

Stealing a wave length to broadcast a speech by Herbert Hoover is a good deal like stealing a man's beefsteak to entertain him at dinner.

Senator Fess is listening to fish stories at White Pine Camp and it looks as though the Citronella Trail will soon need resurfacing.

DICTATORSHIP IS SOUGHT
BY 240 IN THE CHAMBER

Herriot Cabinet to Appear Today; Early Overthrow Is Held Likely.

Paris, July 20 (By A. P.).—The franc's drop to sensational low levels is marked by a corresponding rise in the temper of the Paris population. It went to 49.33 to the dollar today, and after the close of the bourse the dollar flurried with 50 francs, but never quite got down to two American cents.

Deep anxiety prevails in business and financial circles, made evident
by numerous manifestations of crowds in the streets. Parisians are still seeking some one to hold responsible; they hooted the deputies in front of the chamber after the fall of the Briand cabinet, and they jeered M. Herriot, the new premier, when he called on President Doumergue.

Foreigners, however, especially Americans, appear fair game for the populace to vent its spleen.

Many Individual Clashes.

Thus far no foreigners have been injured, the manifestations consisting largely of hoots, catcalls and insults. Numerous individual clashes have occurred in the cafes
and restaurants, culminating last night in an attack upon a chara-banche filled with Americans visiting the heights of Montmartre. The sightseers' loud talk was resented by the citizens of Montmartre, who surrounded the car in a threatening manner.

Numbering about 100, they tried to drag the passengers from the car, but the Americans fought back and there was a lively mixup for a few minutes, until police reserves
appeared and dispersed the rioters.

Commenting on the affray the afternoon papers say it was to be expected and they fear it will not be the last.

Connecticut Youths Beaten.

On the other hand there have been instances of foreign visitors inviting trouble. This afternoon three youths said to be from Connecticut stood in St. Sulpice square, insulting passersby, tripping and striking them. They were eventually surrounded by an ugly crowd who belabored the Americans. The youths were taken to a police station, but were released after a warning.

The police are taking extraordinary precautions to prevent such effervescence developing into regular rioting. The forces have been

Thieves Steal Cash After Binding Mrs. Rosenfield in Mt. Rainier House.

Mrs. Myrtle Rosenfield, 33 years old, of Mount Rainier, Md., wife of C. F. Rosenfield, head of the Rosenfield Aircraft Co., 2601 Ninth street northeast, was found gagged and bound to her bed by her husband when he returned to his home at 11 o'clock last night.

She told Constable Thomas H.
Garrison that she was sitting on the front porch of her home until about 10:40 o'clock when she started to her bedroom. Just as she reached for the light switch,
she claimed that she was attacked
by two persons, gagged and bound to the bedposts. She expressed the belief that one of her assailants
was a woman.

Mrs. Rosenfield asserted that $15 was stolen from the house. She was treated for shock by Dr. J. T.
Maloney, of Cheverly, Md. She was not injured. According to Mrs.
Rosenfield, the assailants threatened to return. Police are conducting a search.

Wall Street Is Uneasy At Wild Paris Rumors

New York, July 20 (By A. P.).—
The tumble of the French franc to its lowest value in history today caused general speculative uneasiness in Wall Street and was considered responsible for heavy stock sales.

It also centered on French political problems the eyes of bankers, but created no demand for bargain-price franc buying.

The unprecedented fall of the franc lowered its value to 1.95 1/4 cents, a drop of 1.6 1/4 cents in the last 24 hours. Par is 19.3
cents.

Wall Street reacted to the wild rumors of rioting in Paris streets and a panic at the bourse, although they lacked confirmation.

Foreign exchange men say that until inflation ceases there can be no stabilization of the franc.

RAIDING POLICE DRINK
ROOM; SHOOT 4, CLUB 8

Fire Through Doors in Three Hotels at Guests, Then Beat Up Victims.

FIGHT WITH RIOT SQUAD

Muskogee, Okla., July 20 (By A.
P.).—Four persons were shot and wounded, two seriously, and eight others severely clubbed by two Muskogee officers who early today became crazed by liquor obtained in raids and ran amuck in three hotels.

The officers, Paul Davis, a deputy sheriff, and Ves Cormack, city detective, ran about the halls of the hotels, battering down doors and firing at guests as they lay in bed.

When their ammunition became exhausted they beat their victims
with clubs and smashed windows and fixtures.

Fellow officers, responding to a riot call, were forced to shoot Davis
several times in a fight to overpower him. His condition is critical. Cormack was subdued and placed in jail.

Several other persons are believed to have been injured but had not been reported to police. The more seriously injured were taken to hospitals, while many fled to nearby hotels or private homes.

Officers investigating said that Davis and Cormack had engaged in liquor raids during the evening.

Search of their automobiles revealed several empty bottles and a quantity of whisky.

Entering a small hotel shortly after 1 o'clock the pair started shooting through doors, at fixtures
and at guests attempting to escape.

They then entered an adjoining hotel and repeated the attack. It was while engaged in their third attack that the riot squad captured them.

Ed Conway, merchant policeman, was severely wounded in trying to overpower Cormack.

Mrs. J. M. Roden was shot in the forehead but has a chance of recovery, physicians said. A negro porter and an unidentified man received slight wounds.

Six of the men most severely beaten are: Homer Pittman, policeman, condition serious; Tom Smith, owner of one of the hotels, and his son, John Smith; Benjamin Butts, K. Forzly, and "Blackie" Williams,
all of Muskogee.

Heart Moved Aside;
Bullet Is Removed

Detroit, July 20 (By A. P.).—
The heart of Patrick Klein, a pugilist, was moved aside today by Dr.
Bernard Friedlaender at Highland Park General hospital while a bullet lodged in the heart wall was removed.

Klein was shot four times July 6.
One of the bullets struck the heart
wall, as Dr. Friedlaender explained, at the instant the heart was contracted. Had the bullet struck when the heart muscles were expanded, death would have been instantaneous. Klein probably will recover, the hospital reported.

engaged to marry Princess Giovanna, third daughter of King Victor Emmanuel.

COUNSEL FOR PSILIAS
KEEPS WITNESS OUT

Pittsburgh Prisoner but Police Believe Alibi.

Cleveland, July 20 (By A. P.).—
Chief of Police S. A. Lengel, of Canton, is on his way here to take back to Canton Jimmy Lamont, of Pittsburgh, in connection with the murder of Don R. Mellett. Lamont walked into Central police station
late today and gave himself up.

Lamont, who is alleged to have a police record, surrendered after he had read in newspapers that he was wanted. He is known to authorities in the vicinity of Warren, Ohio, where the slayers of Mellett are believed to have gone after the killing.

Chief Lengel said he wanted to question Lamont but revealed no evidence that would link the Pittsburgh man with the case.

Lamont declared he had at least 40 witnesses to prove that he was not in Canton on the night of the slaying.

Pellias Kept in Sell.

Pittsburgh, July 20 (By A. P.).— Ora Slater, Cincinnati investigator employed to run down the slayers of Don R. Mellett, Canton, Ohio, publisher, arrived here tonight intent
upon questioning George Pellias, alias "George the Greek," but was refused admittance to the county jail. Slater was accompanied from Canton by Deputy Sheriff Edward Gibson and a man who, Slater said,
was a witness to the murderers' escape.

Shortly after Slater arrived at the jail Peter A. Conner, chief of the homicide squad, endeavored to bring Pellias from the jail to the homicide squad room so that the Canton witness might see the suspect. This move was blocked by Pellias' attorney, who said habeas corpus proceedings instituted today prohibited the removal of Pel-lias until the hearing tomorrow.

The protest was upheld by Warden
John O'Neill.

Later Slater and his two companions started back to Canton.
Slater said they would return tomorrow for the hearing. Conner announced after Slater had departed that if the witness failed to identify Pellias tomorrow and the writ of habeas corpus was granted, Pit-sburgh was through with Psi-alias.

Slater said he was almost positive Psi-alias, who surrendered yesterday, was not the man wanted.

PROTECTING BUYERS
OF COAL IS INTENDED

Executive, However, Is Without Information as to Bill to Be Presented.

Paul Smiths, N. Y., July 20 (By A. P.).—President Coolidge adheres to his views of providing protection through legislation for the consumer in any coal emergency,
while he believes that the government is being administered with every possible attention to sound fiscal policies.

The views of the chief executive on these two questions became known today after a call at the executive office when he received the newspaper correspondents.

The President passed most of the morning at the offices between visits
at White Pine Camp of Secretary Dwight Davis of the War Department and Senator Fess (Republican), Ohio, two of his close official advisers, whose presence was said to be unrelated and the occasion for only incidental discussions of public questions.

W. P. Jackson Is Called.

Still another caller today was William P. Jackson, Republican national committeeman for Maryland, who is passing the summer near here and who stopped to pay his respects.

In response to questions at the executive offices it was said President Coolidge had no information on reported plans of members of the House commerce committee to approach operators and miners in the coal industry this summer with a proposal that their labor disputes be disposed of by conference among themselves and a minimum of government interference along lines set up for the railroad industry in the Watson-Parker railway labor act which was enacted in June.

The President was said to understand that the committee had a bill on coal legislation to take up when Congress reconvenes in December,
but to know nothing of the reported move, although it was reiterated that Mr. Coolidge, as he had made clear before he left Washington, hoped the basic principle of the Washington-Parker bill would be made applicable not only to the coal but many other industries.

Temporary Board Favored.

But in any coal legislation the President was said to regard as fundamental provision for the calling of a temporary board to adjust differences in event of an emergency, and an opportunity to appoint a coal administrator if a scarcity of fuel should be threatened.

While no direct reference was made to recent attacks by Demo-

TARIFF FOR ALL OR NONE,

Two Committees, Meeting at Des Moines, Prepare for Farm Aid Fight.

CABINET STAND OPPOSED

Special to The Washington Post.

Des Moines, Iowa, July 20.—
"Protection for all or protection for none," was the challenge hurled at Secretary Mellon here today by the corn belt committee in its second day's session.

For two days the committee had been working on its plans for renewing the fight for passage of a bill that will make possible the handling of crops under a protective system where the tariff can be made effective on farm products.

The committee of 22, composed of two representatives from each of 11 corn belt States, South Dakota, Kansas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Missouri, Nebraska, Illinois, Iowa, Michigan, Indiana and Ohio, also opened its meeting here today.

There is apparently close harmony between the two committees.

The corn belt committee fixed the cost of producing a bushel of corn,
with a 5 per cent return included,
at $1.42.

Gov. John H. Hammill, of Iowa, outlined his views of the future activities of the committee of 22
at the afternoon session.

Brought From Manila

Victoria, B. C., July 20 (By A.
P.).—J. Watterbold, a Swiss scientist, who has been on an exploration expedition in a remote district of the Philippine islands, believes he has discovered what is designated as "the missing link." He has photographs of a tribe of about 200
"missing links" which he came upon
and remained with for seven days.

With much difficulty he took pictures, as the tribesmen and women refused to pose. But he obtained snapshots when they were unaware of what he was doing. One of the photographs is of a woman,
showing what appears to be a tail,
or a continuation of the spinal column.

Amundsen Is Silent
On Pole Trip Dispute

Oso, Norway, July 20 (By A. P.).
Capt. Roald Amundsen refused today to comment on the statement of Lincoln Ellsworth, his colleague
in the flight of the dirigible Norge
over the north pole, in which Mr.
Ellsworth described Commander
Noble's part in navigating the airship as consisting of "relieving the whimsies for short periods."

The Aero club today received a cablegram from Noble (now in the United States) declaring that certain statements attributed to him
in American papers contained
"grave misrepresentations."

Resignation Filed Two Weeks Ago; Awaits
Its Acceptance.

LEAVES WASHINGTON
TODAY ON MOTOR TRIP

Denies Word of His Retirement Was Withheld So He Could Arrange Matters.

HOGAN HOLDS OFFICIAL
CLEARED BY INQUIRY

Asserts He Took Place Upon Earnest Personal Request of Executive.

Frederick A. Fenning's career as a commissioner is at an end. His resignation is in. Technically, he is still commissioner, but only because President Coolidge has not yet notified him that his resignation has been accepted.

Today Mr. Fenning will start on an extended motor tour of New England, and it is expected that by the time he returns he will have been officially relieved of his office.

The news that Commissioner Fenning had resigned came from the President's summer camp at White Pines yesterday morning. The most surprising fact in the announcement was that Mr. Fenning had sent in his resignation two weeks ago—the night before the President left the city.

Shows Signs of Worry.

During these two weeks, the impression was almost general that Mr. Fenning was "defying" the President and was determined to cling to his office until thrown out.
The commissioner himself never gave any indication that he had submitted his resignation.

The spokesman for the President said yesterday that announcement of the resignation was withheld so that Mr. Fenning could complete certain work he was engaged in.

But Mr. Fenning, through his attorney, Frank J. Hogan, yesterday denied that he had any reason for wanting announcement of the resignation withheld. Apparently,
Mr. Fenning was surprised that the announcement was not made immediately.

Commissioner Fenning's ordinarily stoic demeanor disappeared
yesterday. His brow was creased.
Apparently he was both worried
and weary.

Through his attorney, Mr. Hogan, Mr. Fenning last night announced that he will consider himself a commissioner until President Coolidge has notified him that his resignation had been accepted or has appointed his successor.

May Carry On at Return.

If the President has not done either of these things when Mr.
Fenning returns from his vacation,
Mr. Hogan said, Mr. Fenning will return to his office in the District building and "carry on."

Commissioner Fenning's resignation, which was sent to President
Coolidge through Attorney General Sargent the night of July 6, was very brief. It stated that the resignation was to take effect "at the pleasure of the President." It is on account of this wording that Mr.
Fenning believes he should remain in office until the President formally notified him of what his "pleasure" is.

Hogan Explains Action.

The statement issued by Mr.
Hogan on behalf of Commissioner Fenning follows:

"Mr. Fenning was never a candidate for the office of Commissioner of the District of Columbia.
He accepted that office reluctantly at the earnest personal request of President Coolidge. His position has been that he would gladly render the office to the man from whom he received it, but that he would not retire in the face of attempted impeachment.

"The majority of the judiciary committee of Congress, having held that he was not impeachable and that, even if impeachable, there was no proof of any charge justifying impeachment, and Congress
having adjourned, Mr. Fenning continued his position which, it is repeated, was this: From the President he had received the com-missionership and to the President
he would surrender it.

"Mr. Fenning's resignation was not submitted to take effect when

LIVINGSTON IS BUSY CLAMPING PADLOCKS ON CAPITAL SALOONS

17 Have Been Placed Under Injunction of Court in Last Three Months.

TOO MANY BLIND PIGS
IN CITY, HE DECLARES

$1,000 Fine, Year in Jail Recently Imposed in Contempt of Court Case.

Working quietly and systematically, prohibition agents have clamped "padlock" injunctions on seventeen alleged saloons here in the last three months, and they are preparing now to take a similar action against several other places.

The padlock campaign has been so devoid of the spectacular that it has attracted little attention. The idea, if they could be called that,
has been carried out in such a way that, in many cases, the violators
did not know they had been raided.

R. L. Livingston, the new deputy prohibition administrator here,
said yesterday that the padlock injunction has proved much more effective in stopping the sale of liquor than the old method. This method was simply to charge the proprietor of a place with sale and possession of liquor and endeavor to make him pay a fine.

Like Paying for License.
"The owners of these places didn't mind paying a fine," Mr. Livingston said. "In a way, it was like paying for a liquor license in the old days."

When Livingston hears of a place that has been raided before and is selling liquor again, he details his agent to try and make "buys"
there. If they succeed, a complaint is prepared alleging that the place is a nuisance. This, together with the agents' affidavits, is presented to District of Columbia Supreme Court, and a padlock injunction is applied for.

This injunction restrains the proprietor of the saloon from manufacturing, possessing or selling liquor for one year in the place where the liquor has been purchased. It also restrains him from moving his furniture from the place. These are virtually the only restrictions placed on him. He is not fined, and, if he chooses, can still carry on a lawful business in the place.

Contempt Proceedings Follow.
The agents continue to watch the place. If they find that the proprietor has defied the injunction,
the prohibition authorities petition that he be held in contempt of court.

Harry Maynard, who recently was held in contempt of court, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 and spend one year in jail. He has appealed.

Watch Dial Bearing Name Aids in Recovery of Loot

Archie Murray's Unique Idea Gets Forrest Harrington, Who Denies Theft, Into Trouble—Stolen
Auto Plays Big Part.

It was a sad day for Forrest Harrington when Archie Murray decided to have a watch that was "different." Mr. Murray had discovered that there were exactly twelve letters in his name—one for every hour on the time dial. Why not use these twelve letters instead of twelve numerals, thought Mr. Murray, and use them he did.

Yesterday Forrest Harrington, who is 28 years old and lives in Bladensburg, Md., was arrested by Detective Ernest E. Thompson. The detective suspected him of having held up and robbed Archie Murray.
But when he found that Harrington was carrying Mr. Murray's strange-looking watch, his suspicion turned into absolute conviction. For there could hardly be two such watches.
He, therefore, charged Harrington
with robbery and larceny.

Mr. Murray, a war veteran, living at 1450 Fourteenth street
northwest, was held up and robbed
the night of June 26. The robber took his automobile, his wallet, his war cross and his watch. A description of each article was given to the police.

After notifying the police, Murray inserted an advertisement in The Post. He also began to do a little private sleuthing. The advertisement attracted considerable attention because of its polite tone.
In it, Murray addressed his assailant as a "gentleman," and asked if he would "kindly" return the loot.

Yesterday morning Harrington was driving an automobile which was in collision with another car
at Eleventh and H streets northwest. A policeman, following the usual procedure, made a note of the license number on Harrington's car and turned it in. At the police station it was discovered that this was the number of Murray's stolen machine.

Harrington's arrest by Detective
Thompson followed. Harrington denied the robbery, asserting that the automobile and the watch had been given to him as collateral on a loan.

They then are married

Love took precedence over law yesterday when James L. Seibert, 21 years old, of 1311 L street northwest, was arrested and taken to police court to answer serious charges preferred by Miss Mabel G.
Robinson, 17 years old, of 3515 O
street northwest.

Seibert was taken to the office of Assistant District Attorney Ralph
Given and faced by Miss Robinson.
After a moment of silence, the girl burst into tears and threw herself into his arms, sobbing, "I love you so."

Upon Seibert's protest that he intended to marry the girl, Given nolle prossed the case. A marriage license was issued to the couple later.

Seibert and Miss Robinson were married yesterday afternoon at the Trinity Lutheran church, 505
Fourth street northwest, by the Rev. H. M. Hennig. They were given the blessing of the bride's mother, who attended the wedding.

Gordon and Assistant United States Attorney Frank Orcutt are cooperating with Livingston in the present
"drive." Capt. Orcutt is detailed by the Justice department to handle liquor violations in court.

Mr. Livingston is frank about the situation here. He says that Washington has more than its share of "dives" and "blind pigs." The principal reason for this condition, he says, is the proximity of Baltimore and the large number of moonshine plants in nearby Maryland.

Washingtonians Speak
Before Luther League

Hagerstown, Md., July 20.—Several hundred delegates are attending the fifth annual convention of the Pennsylvania Luther league,
which opened today in Trinity Lutheran church, Smithsburg. The opening session was conducted by the Rev. Dr. J. Edward Harms, Hagerstown. Miss Mabel G. Smith
delivered the address of welcome.
Miss A. Barbara Weigand, Washington, responded.

The keynote address was by the Rev. W. C. Waldens, Washington,
on "The Master's Call."

At a fellowship banquet tonight
addresses were made by Mr. Haller Frey, York, executive secretary of
and the Rev. Dr. J. Edward Harms, Baltimore, president of Maryland
Lutheran synod.

Justification Plea
Of Woman in Suit

Justification was the plea of Miss Mary B. Yates, 3525 T street northwest, who yesterday replied to a $10,000 damage suit filed by James J. Keady, whose alleged threat to shoot her caused his arrest on June 7.

Through her counsel, Harlan
Wood, Miss Yates told the circuit court she and Keady intended to marry, but following a disagreement he threatened to shoot her if she kept company with any other man. The charge of threats against Keady was dismissed in police court.

Funeral Tomorrow
For Victim of Horse

Funeral services for Herbert Mencke, who was kicked to death
by a horse on Guy Bedwell's farm, 3 miles from Laurel, Md., Monday, will be held at Ivy Hill cemetery in Laurel tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Mencke was kicked in the face
by the horse while it was being treated by a surgeon for injuries.
He was 18 years old and had been employed at various farms in the neighborhood for two years. He came to this country from Germany.
Neither of his parents live here.

MAN SHOOTS DEFENDER OF HIS WIFE; KILLS SELF

Woman Beauty Parlor Owner Wounded in Seizing Former Washingtonian's Gun.

HER CONDITION SERIOUS

Lester Pratt, 35 years old, a reporter of the Baltimore Post staff and a former Washington newspaper man, last night seriously wounded Miss Anna Winder, 30 years old, in her beauty shop in Baltimore and then shot himself to death while police were closing in upon him.

The shooting of Miss Winder occurred in her shop on West North avenue, while she was trying to protect Mrs.addy Pratt, 30 years old, the reporter's estranged wife, who fled from the shop during the shooting. Pratt turned the pistol upon himself in an alley around the corner from the shop.

Pratt went to the shop to see his wife, from whom he had been separated for three months. Miss Winder confronted him when he entered the shop and took his message by wife. Returning she told the reporter that his wife refused to see him.

He then drew a pistol from his pocket. He fired four shots. Miss Winder was holding the muzzle of the pistol, which was pointed at her breast, when the fourth shot was fired. The bullet entered her breast and emerged through her back. She fell to the floor wounded.

During the melee Mrs. Pratt had run through a rear door of the shop
which she locked, and sought refuge in the home of Mrs. Milton Dash-field, in Bolton street, around the corner from the shop. Pratt broke the door down in pursuit of his wife.

Told by Mrs. Dashfield that he could not see his wife, Pratt went to the rear of the house. Police reserved, summoned from the Northwestern station, arrived as he was making his way into the house. As the police were closing in upon him, Pratt killed himself.

Five Suffer Dog Bites
During Last Few Days

Five persons have been bitten by dogs within the last few days. Mrs.
Annie Cady, 55 years old, and her daughter, Miss Irene Cady, 21 years old, 754 Twelfth street southeast, were attacked and bitten by a dog
owned by Detective Ernest E.
Thompson, of the Ninth precinct, living at 708 Twelfth street southeast. The dog died and investigation by the health department showed it was suffering from rabies.

Doris E. Grooch, 7 years old, 1352
Brentwood road northeast, was bitten near her home by a dog owned by LeRoy Thayer, 1350 Brentwood road. Harry Miller, 9 years old, 4 Grand street, is under the doctor's care at his home as the result of a dog bite. Cleo Thompson, 1147 Sixth street northeast, was the victim of a dog, owned by William B.
Hayes, 607 Florida avenue northeast.

Hospital Aid Body

land and F. E. Ferguson.

Roamer Is Attacked;
Minister Arrested

The Rev. Alfred Cooper, 39 years old, colored, was holding a revival service in the kitchen of his home, 706 Q street northwest, last night, when James Walker, roamer at the same address, insisted on interrupting the service to eat.

He was told to get out, but would not. Later he was taken to Freed-men's hospital and treated for lac-cations, and the pastor was taken to No. 2 police precinct, charged with assault.

MISS A. O. BELL BRIDE
OF WILLIAM M. RITTER

Coolidge Congratulates Capital Man at Wedding in Richmond.

Special to The Washington Post.
Richmond, Va., July 20.—Miss
Anita Owen Bell, of Petersburg, Va., a descendant of the Bells and Hardys of colonial Virginia, today became the bride here of William M.
Ritter, extensive lumber dealer of Washington and Columbus, Ohio.

The marriage took place in the Hotel Jefferson. The Rev. Dr. Robert J. Bamber, of Petersburg, performed the ceremony.

Among numerous telegrams of congratulation was one from President Coolidge, which said: "My sincere congratulations and good wishes for the future go to you both."

The hotel parlors were decorated with palms and lilies. Preceding the ceremony there was music by the bride's sister, Mrs. Charles Luther Guthrie, and Mrs. Howard E.
Wright, of Petersburg. The bride wore a gown of flesh colored Elizabeth crepe and a picture hat.

Among the out-of-town guests were Arthur C. Needles, president of the Norfolk & Western railroad;
James L. Hamman, Paul Ritter and Landon C. Bell, of Columbus, and Edward Mann, of Bluefield, W. Va.
Immediately after the wedding the bride and bridegroom left for New York where they will sail for Europe. They will live at 2223
Massachusetts avenue, Washington, and 1453 East Broad street, Columbus.

Man Stricken at Car Barn.

Edgar M. Smith, 45 years old, a motorman, 545 Fifteenth street northeast, was stricken suddenly ill
at the Washington Railway & Electric car barn, Fifteenth and H streets northeast, yesterday and taken to Casualty hospital in an ambulance. He is in a serious condition at the hospital suffering from heart trouble.

BETHEL BAPTISTS MEET.

Church Problems to Be Discussed
at 8-Day Convention.

The third annual session of the Bethel Baptist convention will convene for a three-day meeting
at the Vermont Avenue Baptist church today at 10 o'clock. The convention will cover home and foreign missions, education, church extension, city missions and evangelism.

Inspirational music will be directed in all sessions by the Rev.
L. E. Keiser. Dr. S. G. Larkin is president of the convention.

RESCUES WOMAN

SENATOR ROBT. N. STANFIELD.

Mrs. Swanson were being carried out to sea.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Swanson's husband, who was on the beach, saw the struggle and notified the life guards. At the same time, he plunged into the water with his clothes on.

By the time the life guards
reached the scene, Mrs. Swanson had fainted and Senator Stanfield was on the point of exhaustion.
They had disappeared beneath the waves several times, and the anxious spectators on the beach thought they were lost.

The life guards, who are familiar with the treacherous undertow, got Senator Stanfield and Mrs. Swanson safely to the shore. They then set about reviving Mrs. Swanson.

The story of Senator Stanfield's heroism was told last night by friends who witnessed the rescue.
He himself had little to say about it. However, he did admit that it was the most harrowing experience
he ever had.

Stolen Auto Found; Suspect Is Arrested

Twenty minutes after Cornelius
T. Norton, 4616 Forty-eighth street northwest, reported that his automobile had been stolen, police of the Fourth precinct recovered the car at Virginia avenue and South Capitol street last night, and arrested Richard Johnson, colored, 17 years old, 304 E street southwest.

Johnson is charged with taking property without the consent of the owner.

He was arrested by Precinct Detective H. E. Ogle, Sgt. E. T. Harney and Policemen J. W. Wise and J. M. Chacho. The policemen left the station house shortly after the report of the theft of Norton's car
was telephoned from headquarters,
to make a tour of the precinct.

While driving on Virginia avenue near South Capitol street, they saw the automobile parked at the curb,
where Johnson was in the act of stripping it, they reported.

Spatz Flies to Texas From Capital in Day

Washington to San Antonio, Tex., in one day is the record of Maj.
Carl Spatz, office of the chief of air service, War Department, who left Bolling field at 5:10 o'clock yesterday morning and arrived at Kelly field, San Antonio, Tex., at 7:30 o'clock last night.

He flew one of the new Curtiss single-seater pursuit planes called the P-1. The distance is 1,600 miles, and the route followed was Bolling field, Wright field, Ohio;
Scott field, Mo.; Muskogee, Okla., and Kelly field.

MEDAL TO BE SOUGHT FOR CHIEF OF POLICE

Recognition Asked for Valor
of Hyattsville Official, Firemen Meet Tonight.

Following his rescue of Ernest Sikken, of Edmonston, from probable death before an onrushing Baltimore & Ohio train at the grade crossing at Hyattsville a few days ago, and his saving Mrs. Lillie Bonesteel, of Hyattsville, from injury when he hurled her from the path of an automobile Sunday night on the Washington-Baltimore boulevard at Hyattsville, citizens of Hyattsville are preparing to take steps to secure a Carnegie medal for heroism for Chief of Police Robert C. Gallagher.

At a special meeting of the Hyattsville volunteer fire department,
called for tonight at 8 o'clock, delegates and alternates to the annual convention of the Prince Georges County Volunteer Firemen's association, to be held at Riverdale August 7, will be elected.

Active members of the Hyattsville department tonight will begin drills which will be held every Wednesday night until further notice.

Capitol Guide Struck By Hit-Run Driver

Struck and knocked down by an automobile driven by a "hit-and-run" driver, while crossing B street near New Jersey avenue southeast yesterday afternoon, Mrs. Lenora Jones, 58 years old, 318 Sixth street northeast, was seriously injured. A search of the city by police for the "hit-and-run" car last night proved fruitless.

Mrs. Jones, after being struck, was picked up by witnesses who placed her in a passing automobile
and took her to Casualty hospital.
Physicians there found she was suffering from a fractured collar bone
and probable internal injuries. Mrs.
Jones is employed as a guide at the Capitol.

OZEZHINSKY, LEADER IN SOVIET, DIES AT 49

Former Head of Cheka Was One of Trusted Aids
of Lenin.

END COMES SUDDENLY

Moscow, July 20 (By A. P.).—F.
E. Dzerzhinsky, chairman of the supreme council of national economy in the soviet government and one of the most powerful figures in soviet Russia died suddenly today
of heart disease at the age of 49.

Felix E. Dzerzhinsky, who long was one of the trusted lieutenants
of Lenin, probably was best known while at the head of the cheka or Russian secret service police. Although personally of a dreamy temperament and mild manner, he was indefatigable in his pursuit of those whom he considered enemies of the soviet republic.

As he once expressed it, he considered it his duty as head of the cheka "neither to judge nor pardon,
but to incinerate every one who is on the other side of the barricade."

"In this desperate struggle of two worlds there is no third way," he was once quoted as saying. "Those who are not with us are against us."

Dzerzhinsky originally was a member of the social democratic party of Poland, but entered the Russian party, together with the Polish social democratic group in 1906. During his life he spent eleven years in prison because of his revolutionary activities, including three years of penal servitude.
He was exiled three times, escaping
each time.

At the time of the Russian revolution in 1917, Dzerzhinsky was still serving a term of imprisonment, but was freed after a general amnesty had been declared. He went to Petrograd in August, 1917,
and supported the bolsheviks, being elected to the central executive committee. He was a member of the war revolutionary committee with whom all power rested in the days of the October, 1917, coup d'etat.

Later he became known as one of the chief heads of the government. In time he became chairman of the state political bureau, which corresponds to the Department of Justice in the United States and chairman of the supreme council of national economy.

Missing Wife Sought
At Husband's Request

Police were asked last night to search for Mrs. Catherine Hanback, 27 years old, 1123 Tenth street northwest, who disappeared from home Monday. Her husband said that he had received no word
from her since she left home.

Mrs. Hanback is 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighs 110 pounds. She has light blue eyes and dark bobbed hair and was wearing a light blue dress and black and white shoes.

Detective Goes Today
For Holdup Suspect

Headquarters Detective Bernard
Thompson will depart today for New York with a warrant for the arrest of Charles Baum, alias Cohen, who is wanted by police in connection with the holdup in the home of Mrs. Norman Williams, 1227 Sixteenth street northwest, about four months ago. He has been fighting extradition.

The robbery at the home of Mrs.
Williams was one of the boldest ever committed in this city. Six men, representing themselves as Federal officers gained entrance to the house, bound and gagged the guests and servants, and while police of the Third precinct were pounding on the front door, escaped with jewelry valued at approximately $2,000. Joseph Davidson was captured and sentenced to 30 years in jail.

Pershing to Be Urged
For Chief of Legion

The name of Gen. John J. Pershing will be proposed for the position of national commander of the American Legion by delegates from George Washington post, No.
1, at the convention of the organization next October in Philadelphia,
according to an agreement unanimously voted at the meeting of the post last night.

Gen. Pershing by this action will be made the candidate from the District department. It is most fitting that he should have the position, it is said, in order that he might lead the trip to France for the Paris convention next year.

Howard S. Fisk, W. W. Sreator and N. J. Cosel were named the convention committee of the post.

Mrs. Chittenden New Employment Official

Mrs. Cecil R. Chittenden, of Anderson, Ind., has been appointed superintendent of the Washington office of the United States Employment service to succeed Robert M.
Pilkington, also of Indiana, it was announced yesterday by the Labor Department.

Mrs. Chittenden assumed her new duties yesterday. She worked at the Washington office of the employment service two years, and was transferred to the research division of the Department of Labor. Mr.
Pilkington has been appointed a member of the staff of the conciliation division, with headquarters at South Bend, Ind.

PASTOR J. F. NORRIS URGES INDICTMENT OF SELF AS SLAYER

Opportunity to Be Cleared in Open Trial Demanded
at Fort Worth.

RELIGIOUS CONSPIRACY BLAMED FOR SHOOTING

Members of Another Faith
Named; Grand Jury Hears
Six Witnesses.

Fort Worth, Tex., July 20 (By A. P.).—A demand that the grand jury indict him for the killing last Saturday of D. E. Chippis, Fort Worth lumberman, so that he can have "a fair and open chance to be cleared," was made here today by Rev. J. Frank Norris.

Dr. Norris is charged by complaint with the murder of Chippis, who was killed in the office of the First Baptist church, when he called to protest against an attack by the pastor on Mayor H. C. Mecham and others.

The fear that the jury, which began its investigation today, would "no bill" him and thus prevent his acquittal of the charge of murder was expressed by Dr. Norris to a representative of the Associated Press. The pastor said it was the wish of himself and his congregation that he be indicted.

Grand Jury Takes Recess.

After examining six witnesses the jury recessed until tomorrow, with a list of eleven additional witnesses summoned to appear. As the inquisitorial body got down to work, a local law firm announced it had been retained by the slain man's divorced wife, Mrs. D. E. Chippis, as special prosecutors.

The six witnesses examined were L. H. Nutt, deceased; L. H. Nutt, Jr., who saw Chippis killed; R. Bonna Ridgway, member of the church, who was sitting in an automobile in front of the church when Chippis entered on his fatal mission; Detective A. L. Ford, who investigated the slaying and arrested Norris; Mrs. Fannie Greer, switchboard operator at the West Brook hotel; Leo S. Grevenberg, hotel clerk, who overheard Chippis' telephone conversation with Norris shortly before the shooting; and Baalam Shaw, church janitor, who directed Chippis to Norris' office.

Miss Jane Hartwell, Dr. Norris' secretary, who was in a nearby

1926 Girls Not to Be Thin Nor Blonde, Says Ziegfeld

Stage Model to Be Red Haired or Brunette, and Taller, Producer Adds—Chorus to Draw
More From Colleges.

Special to The Washington Post.
New York, July 20.—Flo Ziegfeld
has given out his specifications
for the 1926 model girl of the stage and chorus.

She will not be a blonde.
She'll not be so thin as the 1925
girl, and she'll have, therefore, a curve or two, and dimples.
She may be a little taller.
She'll come from more refined surroundings, and often she'll be a college girl.

Ziegfeld sees a definite passing of the vogue for being thin. He warns American women that they are injuring their health, and their beauty too, by strenuous efforts to take off just a few more ounces.

It is the titan, the red-haired girl and the brunette whom Ziegfeld prefers, the noted producer believes.

"The present epidemic of favor for blondes," said Ziegfeld, "is largely on paper. The charm of the blonde lies only in the fact that she is a contrasting type." Ziegfeld declares. "Here in the United States we have been deprived of a blonde population because of geographical reasons.

"Much of the charm of the blonde girl is associated with the stage, but in private life it is the titan, the red-headed girl and the brunette, who exercise the most lasting influence.

"The nation has gone mad on dieting. American women are endangering their health through dieting.

"The 1926 girl must not be too thin, nor must she be too fat. But she will have more inclination to complex and curves than her sister of 1925.

"As to height, the girl of the future will be tall. I personally prefer tall girls.

"The mental and spiritual being of the chorus girl is gradually improving. More and more, as the demand for personality increases,
she is becoming a highly refined,
educated girl. Many are coming from the colleges."

room when Chippis was shot, expects to be called tomorrow.

Sitting in the church office, almost on the spot where Chippis fell,
Dr. Norris was by turns calm, vigorous and sorrowful as he discussed various phases of the tragedy.

Twice tears came to his eyes when he said he was sorry that "this had to be."

A tall, slender man, fresh appearing in a neat gray suit, with powerful hands, steel blue eyes,
and an almost youthful face, Dr.
Norris was for the most part calm.

He registered anger when he charged that there had been a conspiracy to kill him, and that he simply "beat them to it."

"Why this had to be visited upon me, I do not know," said Dr. Norris. "While I know that it could not be otherwise, I know also that there will be many dark waters
ahead for me."

"I had to defend myself,"
Dr. Norris said he had cancelled
all outside engagements for a year
hence and expected to stay here in Fort Worth until the people who have stood so loyally with me."

Will Preach on Defense.
He said he would preach next Sunday on "The Inalienable right of self-defense."

Dr. Norris' publication, the Searchlight, will print this week an article giving the church's official version of the circumstances surrounding Chippis' death. The article is signed by J. J. Mickie, public relations director of the church.

This article charges a conspiracy
by members of another faith to attack Norris, principally because of a sermon he preached on July 11
on the subject, "Six Members of First Baptist Church Fired by L. B.
Haughey, Roman Catholic Manager
of Meacham Drygoods Company."

The article alleges that members of this faith visited Dr. Norris ask-

Chippis' visit was part of this same alleged "conspiracy," and that there

tive rulers under the local government, and have great power over the people.

The expedition has passed many fields of kafir corn, in the center of which a small boy stands on a high platform to frighten away the birds.

"We reached Mobuque this noon," Dr. Mann wrote, adding:
"We spent the night in the morning
to make camp in the hills and hunt from there. We have seen signs of elephant, rhino, hippo and lion, and all kinds of small beasts."

While passing a few days before
through the Makoto plains, Dr.
Mann wrote, the party spied 30
giraffe feeding beside the railroad tracks.

Excerpts from his letters follow:
"One day I took a stroll 200 yards away from the camp we had pitched for the day and suddenly found myself in the midst of a big troop of yellow baboons in the trees and among the rocks. They retreated before me slowly, and the biggest male in the troop kept well behind the others and barked at me furiously as he went along.

"Toward evening at one village
we met a priest, followed by three porters carrying an organ. He explained that he was to conduct services at the village."

Dr. Mann declared the nights are often cold, so cold in fact that heavy blankets are required.

Immediately on reaching Mobuque, he said, the sultan sent them some wood and water. They very often obtain eggs, milk and chickens from the natives, he said.
One day they shot a big spur-winged goose that provided supper.

A large part of the country is mountainous and picturesque, he asserted. This is relieved by expanses of flat country.

Hump-backed cattle and goats
are found among the natives, and the herdsmen have a habit of standing on one foot like a crane, with the other foot placed against the side of the knee.

Some of the tribes of natives, he said, pass a great deal of their time
with their hair—the chief source of their pride. However, those that are more agricultural give more time to crops. The native farmers have no easy time, for the small birds work havoc with their kafir corn.

Their present camping place, he said, is distinguished by having a large number of the King's African Rifles stationed in it. Of this village, he said:

"This is one of the places where flies attack us all day and mosquitoes all night. Early this morning we got some lungfish—an ancient type of fish—in a water hole near the camp."

Senator Says Issue Is Not

Wilmington, Del., July 20 (By A.
P.).—Instead of relinquishing property to the British government during his term of office, securities actually here government-owned British, Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, said in an open letter today to Chairman Borah, of the Senate foreign relations committee.

The letter was in reply to statements made by Senator Borah in a communication addressed last week to Howard Sutherland, present property custodian. Mr. Borah asked for information regarding reports he said he had heard to the effect $125,000,000 worth of American securities seized from German owners had been sent to England.

The negotiations for the transfer having been carried on by Mr. Mil-

Property Not Given Up.
"You will learn, senator, after reading this letter," Mr. Miller said,
"that instead of relinquishing property to a foreign government, I have stock certificates in American corporations which the British government was holding as the property of alien enemies and which our government has not yet received into possession of without the agreement criticized by you."

"Any one so well versed as yourself in the affairs of Washington could know that a transaction of this character with a foreign government must of necessity receive the approval of the American State Department, and in addition thereto, that of the Department of Justice, the tenor of your letter makes clear that no inquiry has been made at either of these departments for the facts."

Mr. Miller said the British public trees, the official corresponding to the Chicago Tribune let that editorial get into the paper. But it is more than a coincidence. This happened before just as I was passing through Chicago. I read the editorial just before I arrived in Chicago. I immediately wrote the letter."

Valentino gave gestures suitable to his wrath.

"I am not angered by the reference to my being the son of a gardener," he added. "What made me mad is the whole tone of the insulting thing. In Italy in the absence of the name of the writer of an article the editor may be challenged.
I regret that system is not in vogue
here."

Valentino made it clear, however,
that he is not in any way against the Chicago Tribune, but merely the writer of the editorial. "It might have been written and slipped in at the last moment," he said.

In Chicago Wreck

Chicago, July 20 (By A. P.).— Twenty-one persons were injured,
two probably seriously, today when
a northbound special suburban passenger train from South Chicago carrying nearly 300 office workers collided with a work train in the Illinois Central railroad yards at Twenty-third street.

One woman and the fireman of the work train were reported seri-

the fire which destroyed Twilight inn here Wednesday were increased to twenty early today when Mrs.
Laura M. Garrett, 79, of New York city, died in the Red Cross Emergency hospital at Tannersville.

Mrs. Garrett received a broken thigh and serious bruises when she leaped from a third-story window
of the inn, but her death was said
to have been caused by complications following an attack of pneumonia.

Thirteen of the bodies taken from the ruins of the inn still remain unidentified and will be buried at the joint funeral in this village tomorrow.

VALENTINO, "REAL MAD," WANTS TO FIGHT EDITOR

Admits Challenging Writer of Editorial on "Pink Powder Puffs."

DROWNING WAS URGED

New York, July 20 (By A. P.).— Rudolph Valentino arrived in New York today itching to fight the man who wrote an editorial "Pink Powder Puffs," published in the Chicago Tribune.

The editorial said that the "sheik
of the movies" should have been drowned years ago. And concluded with: "Rudy, the beautiful gardener's boy, is the prototype of the American male," he admitted writing a letter to the newspaper about it, challenging the writer.

"As soon as I had written the letter," he said, "I handed it to my publicity agent and let him do the rest."

"I'm mad," Valentino snapped out to reporters. "I'll make whoever wrote that foul stuff look like a full moon. This is no publicity stunt. 'I'm really mad.'"

Valentino, interviewed in the Ambassador hotel, sat in an easy chair,
the height of fashion in costume,
but his eyes flashed.

"I can't understand how the editor of the Chicago Tribune let that editorial get into the paper. But it is more than a coincidence. This
happened before just as I was pass-

DISTURBANCE SEEN IN TREASURY PLAN IF TARIFF IS REVISED

Slashes, Farmers Said to Want, Held to Mean Big Revenue Cut.

BUDGET ESTIMATES NOW BEFORE BUREAU

By WILLIAM P. HELM, JR.
Any decided downward revision of the tariff such as that contemplated by the farmers will impel the treasury to change its revenue plans for the near future. A study of the budget for the current fiscal year discloses that the government expects to collect almost as much in revenue from the tariff as from individual income taxpayers and that its financial affairs have been balanced for the year in the expectation that the present tariff duties would remain in effect until July 1, 1927.

Further, the government is now collecting the estimates of the various departments of the sums they will need to maintain them during the coming fiscal year of 1928. The first preliminary estimates, called for a few weeks ago, are now before the budget bureau. So is an estimate of the governmental receipts during the next fiscal year. Both income and outgo figures contemplate the continuance of the present tariff law.

The amount expected from the collection of duties during the coming year is about $70,000,000. During the past year it amounted to nearly $580,000,000, the largest sum on record. The budget bureau, expecting no cut in the tariff, is now in the preliminary stages of constructing the next budget. If the farmers back of the move to reduce duties are successful in the near future, one of two changes must be made by the treasury: Expenses must be cut still further (they are already about as low as they can be made on the basis of present operations) or larger revenues than those now anticipated must be forthcoming.

A possible third course is the utilization of the prospective surplus of $185,000,000 this year and $200,000,000 next year for tariff reduction. It will be seen, however, that next year's prospective surplus—as estimated by Treasury experts—is too small to permit of a tariff cut out of any consequence. The $200,000,000 estimate, however, undoubtedly is ultraconservative.

The tariff law of 1922 has been in effect for four full fiscal years. During that period the government has collected nearly $2,250,000,000 in customs duties. Never before has there been so large a revenue from a tariff law. The sum is almost as large as that collected during the nine fiscal years immediately preceding the enactment of the present tariff law, falling some $40,000,000 under the total for that period.

World Peace a Factor.

There is another factor, however, than the uniformly high rates which has contributed to this great discrepancy between the past four fiscal years and the nine immediately preceding them. That factor, briefly stated, is that practically the entire world has been at peace and has been expanding its trade during the past four fiscal years, whereas for the greater portion of the nine years before, the leading nations were at war. The war depressed Europe's exports to America to such extent that tariff collections fell below normal.

Thus, during those nine years the government collected an average of about $255,000,000 a year in duties, most of the collections being under the tariff law, falling some $40,000,000 under the total for that period.

Jewels of Elsie Janis Held by Customs Men

New York, July 20 (By A. P.). Elsie Janis, actress, and her mother had to strip themselves of their jewels and surrender them to customs officials today when they arrived from Europe on the French liner Paris.

"It's all beyond me," said Miss Janis after she and Mrs. Janis had removed two strings of pearls, rings, earrings and bracelets estimated to be worth $50,000. "Evidently some one has written a letter to the customs stating that mother and I have brought in jewels. It's a joke to describe what few things I have as jewels."

The jewelry was placed in a small sealed bag and will be held by the customs until Miss Janis appears for a hearing tomorrow. Customs officials stated that the Janis adornments had not been seized, but were only being detained pending the usual investigation where the question of illegal entry has been raised.

The last four fiscal years tariff collections were approximately as follows:

1924	$445,000,000
1925	$47,000,000

Doubles Last G. O. P. Law.

The average annual yield of the 1922 tariff law has been about $558,000,000 thus far. This is nearly double the average annual yield under the last Republican tariff law when the volumes of imports were far lower than it is now.

From individual income taxpayers the Federal government will collect this fiscal year, it is estimated, somewhat less than $650,000,000 in current taxes. Collection of back taxes may swell this sum.

From the foregoing figures, it will be seen that the tariff plays a major role in the nation's revenues. Any lowering of receipts from the tariff probably would defer further income tax reductions for from one to three years, should the volume of business remain at or near its present level. The size of the tariff reduction would be a deciding factor in determining the Treasury surplus, out of which might come tax reduction.

A study of the tariff collections for the calendar year 1924, latest period for which figures have been formally announced, shows that the schedule covering sugar and molasses and their manufacture yielded a greater income to the Treasury than any other schedule, with receipts of nearly $135,000,000. Agricultural products and manufactures (other than sugar and molasses) resulted in revenue of $60,000,000.

Duties of nearly $24,500,000 were paid on chemicals, pigments during the year $22,000,000 on earths, earthenware and glassware; $47,700,000 on metals and their manufactured products; $4,100,000 on wood and manufactures of wood; $34,000,000 on tobacco in its various forms; $18,000,000 on cotton and its manufactures; $25,000,000 on flax, hemp and jute; $17,600,000 on silk and silk goods, and $4,800,000 on paper, pulp and books.

During that calendar year imports totaled about $3,575,000,000, and of that sum 60 per cent came in duty free. These were largely raw materials. The total value of imports valued at about $1,467,000,000. They were taxed at the average rate of 37.39 per cent. Considering the free list, however, the tax on all imports for the year averaged about 15.34 per cent of their value.

The record also shows that the rate of tariff collections was lowest during the year ended June 30, 1919, when it fell to 6.20 per cent on the total value of imports, and that it was highest shortly after the civil war, when it reached 18.68 per cent, of the value of all imports. Collections that year, however, amounted to but $160,000,000. The rate then was three times as high as now; collections now are three times as much as then, due to the greater volume of trade.

Four More Veterans Released by Court

Four more war veterans were ordered released from St. Elizabeths hospital yesterday by Chief Justice McCoey in the District Supreme court because of a lack of proper commitment papers.

They were Everett L. Mason, Gus R. Kaschubey, Samuel R. Major and Michael Hefferman. Attorney George F. Curtis appeared for the patients.

U. S. WORLD COURT RESERVATION FACES STRONG OPPOSITION

Advisory Opinion Objection Proves Stumbling Block With Many Nations.

Coolidge and Kellogg Hold Senate Only Has Power to Discuss Changes.

By ALBERT W. FOX.

Latest reports reaching official circles here now indicate that one of the American reservations to the world court protocol is to be rejected, almost unanimously, when the members of the League of Nations meet at Geneva in September to pass judgment on the conditions which the United States imposed in ratifying the court protocol.

The fifth reservation, whereby the United States demands that the court members agree not to ask for any advisory opinion of the court through the medium of the league council in any matter where the United States has an interest, is the stumbling block.

Eleven of the fourteen or fifteen powers which are to send representatives to Geneva to discuss the American reservation have indicated that this fifth reservation cannot be accepted without placing the United States in a position of suzerainty over all the other powers.

From individual income taxpayers the Federal government will collect this fiscal year, it is estimated, somewhat less than $650,000,000 in current taxes. Collection of back taxes may swell this sum.

From the foregoing figures, it will be seen that the tariff plays a major role in the nation's revenues. Any lowering of receipts from the tariff probably would defer further income tax reductions for from one to three years, should the volume of business remain at or near its present level.

The record also shows that the rate of tariff collections was lowest during the year ended June 30, 1919, when it fell to 6.20 per cent on the total value of imports, and that it was highest shortly after the civil war, when it reached 18.68 per cent, of the value of all imports.

Collections that year, however, amounted to but $160,000,000. The rate then was three times as high as now; collections now are three times as much as then, due to the greater volume of trade.

FENNING PUTS OVER POLICE PROMOTIONS FOR NEW PRECINCT

Commissioner Signalizes His Retirement by Hastening Action on Appointment.

HIGHER RANKS GIVEN TO THREE MEMBERS

Lieut. Wilson Made Captain; Burke and McCormack Advanced to Lieutenants.

Commissioner Frederick A. Fenning signalized what was deemed his last day of active service in office yesterday by hastening three police promotions that were scheduled to be made several days hence. He presented his recommendations to the regular semi-weekly meeting of the board of District commissioners.

The promotions were to officers in the new thirteenth precinct police station. The station is not yet completed, and it was the plan to make the promotions after its completion. On Monday Fenning ordered them prepared for presentation to the board yesterday.

Wilson Made Captain.
Lieut. James E. Wilson was promoted to be captain of the new precinct. Sergts. F. S. W. Burke and J. W. McCormack were made lieutenants.

Sergt. Burke has been in command of police school for probationary patrolmen. He will succeed Lieut. Wilson as the police department's representative before the civil service commission.

Sergt. McCormack has been stationed at the Eleventh precinct. Lieut. Wilson was the ranking lieutenant and stood first in line of seniority for promotion.

The commission set aside the verdict of the police trial board for a fine of $50 against Police Private E. D. Gentry, Jr., charged with cruelty against Howard Van Stewart, a colored prisoner, last June, and remanded the case to the trial board for reconsideration. The punishment of Patrolman A. S. P. Griffin was reduced from dismissal to a fine of $100.

western States for the purpose of carrying on the national agricultural policy adopted here by the leaders of the various sections," he said.

Members of President Coolidge's cabinet were criticized at the meeting and a resolution was passed condemning "the short-sighted policy expressed by spokesmen for the national administration, including Secretary Mellon and Secretary Jardine, which opposes any move to make the tariff effective for agriculture on the ground that to do so would place American industry at a disadvantage in competition with foreign competitors in the export markets of the world."

The committee holds that the policy of these cabinet members would lead to the industrialization of the nation at the expense of the farmers, subordinating agriculture to industry in order that the latter might compete favorably with the protection of the farming industry. In outlining its new policy for the protection of the farming industry, the committee says that as a practical and immediate move to secure for agriculture its share of the national income, it favors legislation that will enable farmers to control and manage excess supplies at their own expense, so as to secure satisfactory returns, including the full economic advantages of protective tariffs.

The convention voted in favor of maintaining "American standards of living for all our people," and the leaders want to retain the protective system that has developed in this country, but only in case it is made equitable by extending it to the great surplus crop of agriculture.

Figures were presented to show that the farm indebtedness of the United States jumped from $4,000,000,000 to $12,250,000,000 between 1919 and 1924.

In a resolution the committee says its members "distrust these interrelations that appear to give to industrial advisers who were not without self-interest as dealers or as speculators in farm products, the deciding voice, not only influencing the enactment of agricultural legislation, but in determining the manner of administration of such laws after enactment."

The committee wants the public to know more about such activities and urges the broadening of Senator Wheeler's investigation to throw light on the various sources that have been moving toward the subordination of agriculture.

It also asks for an investigation of Secretary Herbert Hoover's activities in "dominating the functions of the Department of Agriculture."

The resolution adopted by the corn belt committee were indorsed in full by the committee of 22. Agricultural leaders of both committees expect the same set of resolutions to be approved by the Iowa Republican State convention which is to be held here tomorrow.

FENNING IS FORCED TO QUIT

he cleared up some pending matters. It was submitted to take effect at the pleasure of the President. Since the submission of the resignation, Mr. Fenning has been awaiting the President's pleasure in the matter. When the resignation is accepted, he will lay down the duties of commissioner. Naturally, in the time intervening between submitting his resignation and the President's acceptance of it, he has uninterruptedly discharged the duties of his office.

Mr. Fenning wrote out his resignation a few hours after President Coolidge had announced that he wanted him to resign. He then dispatched a messenger with it to the Department of Justice. The President, it is understood, was notified immediately. The next day he departed for his camp in the Adirondacks.

Resignation Demanded.
President Coolidge, it was said yesterday at White Pine camp, had asked Mr. Fenning to resign after the judiciary committee had "severely condemned" his guardianship practice. When he failed to hand in his resignation, the President decided to demand it.

According to word received from the President's camp last night, Mr. Fenning's resignation will be accepted formally within a few days. The President will then begin the task of selecting a successor.

No indication has been given that President Coolidge favors any one of the score or more of men who have been suggested for Mr. Fenning's job. It was said the impression is, however, that he will offer the job to Frederick A. DeLano. Mr. DeLano, who is now in Rome, was offered the commission after the death of Commissioner James P. Oyster, but it was found that he was not eligible.

Stormy From Beginning.

No District official ever had a stormier career in office than Fenning. From the day he took over the job made vacant by the death of James P. Oyster, he was either in the midst of a controversy, emerging from a controversy or facing a new one.

The story has never been published heretofore of an incident that marked his inaugural day at the District building. Newspaper reporters refrained from writing it simply for the sake of harmony.

The facts were these: When Commissioner Fenning went to the District building to pick up the reins, he discovered that the corner of the building used was being occupied by Engineer Commissioner J. Franklin Bell. The latter had many good reasons for wanting this office. The principal reason was that this corner of the building was laid out in such a way as to suit his peculiar needs. There is an anteroom as one enters the door, and on either side of it is an office. Mr. Fenning wanted one of these for himself and the other for his assistant, Maj. W. E. R. Covell. Under this arrangement, he and Maj. Covell would have a common anteroom for callers, something that was almost impossible under the old arrangement.

But Col. Bell reckoned without Mr. Fenning. When the latter discovered that he was expected to use the office vacated by Col. Bell, he emitted what was described around the District building as a "squawk." He got it, of course. Col. Bell graciously moved back to his old office, and masked what his feelings he had under a smile.

To understand how Mr. Fenning won his appointment as commissioner, it is necessary to know something of his political background. He had associated himself with the Republican committee here, and when preparations were being made for the inauguration of President Coolidge he was named secretary of the inaugural committee.

As secretary of the committee, Mr. Fenning came into direct contact with President Coolidge. It was said that his ideas regarding the inaugural celebration dovetailed perfectly with those of the President, who was strongly opposed to ostentation. Thus, he apparently made a favorable impression.

Then came the death of Commissioner Oyster, and the necessity of selecting a successor. Many men were suggested to the President, and the usual reports went around as to who was to be his choice. Mr. Fenning's name was never very prominent among those mentioned. One night Mr. Fenning was called to the White House and asked if he would accept the commissionership. He consented. He had another conference with the President the next day, and then his appointment was announced.

Headley Demotion Stirs.

He was sworn into office at 10 o'clock the morning of June 5, 1925, by Chief Justice McCoy, of the District Supreme court. Congress was not in session at this time, and his nomination had to wait for confirmation until the session which began in December. There were reports that several persons would appear before the Senate committee to oppose confirmation, but nothing of the kind happened.

The outstanding controversy in Mr. Fenning's term of office was brought about by the demotion of Albert J. Headley from a police inspector to a captain.

Headley was chief of the traffic bureau, and until the appointment of M. O. Eldridge as traffic director was virtually supreme in matters affecting traffic here. His demotion came like the proverbial bolt from the blue.

Headley himself said nothing at that time, but his friends set up a clamor. They pointed out that Headley was nearing retirement age; that his record was spotless; and they stressed the fact that he had never been given a hearing or told why he was demoted.

Charles W. Darr, prominent attorney and a member of the Chamber of Commerce, was the most active champion of Headley. He made a notable speech on the matter before the chamber, and roundly denounced Commissioner Fenning. Subsequently, Commissioner Fenning left Darr off the fire prevention committee. Darr had been a member of this committee for years.

In making public the demotion of Headley, Commissioner Fenning said that he had taken the action in the interest of good police administration. Several months later, in testifying before a committee of Congress, he revealed that Traffic Director Eldridge had complained that Headley was not cooperating with him.

Friends of Headley said it was not the demotion itself that was so "disgraceful," but the manner in which it was executed, the lack of a hearing and the silence of those responsible.

There were at least two incidents antedating the Headley demotion that attracted attention to Mr. Fenning.

One day he saw an ambulance of Emergency hospital speeding along the street with its horn sounding continuously. He looked into the speeding vehicle and saw that it contained no patient, although going toward the hospital.

After making inquiries he asked the authorities of the hospital to discharge the driver for driving so fast and for making so much noise when he had no patient. Then he gave out interviews on the lack of necessity for so much fuss when an ambulance went on a freeride. The driver's explanation of his speed was that he was the only ambulance available for emergency calls that day and he was required to get back at once to be ready for further service. The driver was dismissed.

Has Bench Removed.

More recently Commissioner Fenning, roaming through the corridors of the District building, saw one of the colored elevator women eating her lunch on a bench in the basement corridor just outside the door of the detective bureau.

The commissioner stopped and asked her if that was where she habitually ate her lunch and she told him it was the only available place. That same afternoon he ordered the bench removed.

Commissioner Fenning, soon after taking office, announced that he was interested in enforcement of the prohibition laws. He caused promotion of Guy Burlingame from lieutenant to captain in the police department, had him assigned to a police station in Anacostia, and placed him in charge, in addition to his duties as a captain, of a flying squadron of plain clothes men to chase rum runners, raid illicit stills and put down bootlegging.

At once complications ensued with neighboring States, for part of the original Fenning-Burlingame plan of campaign was to lie in wait for automobile booze squadrons in Maryland roads.

Commissioner Fenning, in the meantime, was employed in the pension office as an assistant chief clerk. It was here that he conceived the idea of specializing as a guardian of lunatics. What he had observed in the pension office convinced him that the field should be a fruitful one, a conviction that later was to be borne out. He resigned his position at the pension office in 1925 and began his "lunacy practice."

Fenning's first move was to appear before the justices of the District Supreme court and the officials of St. Elizabeths hospital and notify them that he was going to devote his time and labor acting as committee for mentally incompetent persons. He got the cases and his fortune began to grow.

Court records show that his total income in the way of commissions exceeded $100,000.

Meanwhile, he began to take an interest in matters and institutions outside the practice of law. He became a director of the Washington Loan and Trust Co. and a director of the National Savings & Trust Co. He also became a stockholder in the Joseph Gaffney undertaking establishment, as well as acting as attorney for it.

Member of Many Bodies.

For a time, Mr. Fenning was engaged in collecting accounts for the Washington Gas Light Co. He also was attorney for the District of Columbia Medical society and a director of the Laurel sanitarium.

In June, 1917, Mr. Fenning obtained a commission as captain in the quartermaster corps of the army. Subsequently, he was promoted to major, and he now holds the commission of colonel in the reserves.

Mr. Fenning is a member of the Board of Trade, a member of the board of medical supervisors of the district, a trustee of American university, member of the American Bar Association of the District of Columbia, member of the Sons of the American Revolution and a member of the Army and Navy club and the Chevy Chase club.

PRESIDENT APPROVES COL. YATES' PROMOTION

War Department Announces Its Recommendation Favored by Coolidge.

TO SUCCEED GEN. DALTON

Approval by President Coolidge of the recommendation for the appointment of Col. Arthur W. Yates, Manila, chief quartermaster of the Philippines, to be brigadier general and assistant quartermaster general, succeeding Brig. Gen. A. C. Dalton, president of the Emergency Fleet Corporation, was announced at the War Department yesterday.

Col. Yates was born in Wisconsin, February 14, 1865, and was commissioned a second lieutenant of infantry in the regular army by appointment from civil life in August, 1891. He served at various stations with the infantry until 1901, graduating from the Infantry and Cavalry school in 1895, and in 1901 being transferred to the quartermaster corps with which he has since served.

Prior to the world war he was chief quartermaster of Visayas, P. I., with the transportation service to Cuba during the Cuban occupation, and assistant to the quartermaster general, assistant to the quartermaster general, assistant to the quartermaster general at San Francisco and Manila.

During the world war he was first engaged as executive to the quartermaster at New York, in the organization of the transportation service to France and later became quartermaster of the port of Boston, going to France after the armistice, where he was first quartermaster of the American forces in France during the period of final withdrawal and adjustment.

cratic leaders in Congress on the administration's economy program and charges that government expenditures were increasing, President Coolidge let it be known that he regarded with approval the statement on expenditures by Chairman Madden, of the House appropriations committee, which appeared in the Congressional Record of July 12.

Although $273,000,000 more was appropriated for the fiscal year 1927 than in 1926, it was said in the future a number of the items, such as those for the veterans' bureau and road construction would not be so heavy. Those for 1927, it was explained, involved payments on special bills for which accurate estimates were impossible the previous year.

Bonus Bill Requires More.

The soldiers' bonus, it was pointed out, required $100,000,000 for the present fiscal year as compared with half that sum last year, going far to make the appropriation for the veterans' bureau $173,000,000 in excess of a year ago. The good roads item was $26,000,000 in excess of the preceding year, while increases on other matters included $14,000,000 on public buildings, $13,000,000 on prohibition enforcement, $5,000,000 on civil and Spanish war pensions, and $10,000,000 for rivers and harbors, much of the latter on account of improvements in the Mississippi basin between St. Louis and Kansas City.

A number of miscellaneous items, such as payment of claims and refunding of taxes brought the total to $273,000,000.

The country is expanding rapidly, it was said, and the pressure upon the Federal government to take on new activities is very great, but is being resisted by the President and by Congress as much as possible.

Debt Interest to Be Reduced.
As the national debt is paid off, it was added, requirements for interest charges will be reduced, but the plan is for the money to be put into the sinking fund as the interest on the debt decreases.

Secretary Davis arrived last night in the course of an inspection trip of army posts and left this morning for Fort Ethan Allen, after catching three bass and a pike in Lake Osgood before the summer White House. His conversations with the President were said to have dealt largely with fishing, the only approach to questions of government being a discussion of the recent arsenal explosion near Dover, N. J.

Asked by Mr. Coolidge concerning the disaster, Mr. Davis said Maj. Gen. C. C. Williams, chief of army ordnance, was making a survey of the arsenal and the soundness of the policy for storing explosives and that department recommendations would await that report. It is the desire of Mr. Coolidge that

No Special Questions by Fess.

Senator Fess arrived this forenoon for lunch to remain until tomorrow. An administration supporter in the Senate and a prominent supporter of its farm legislation policies in the recent session, his visit afforded Mr. Coolidge opportunity to discuss a wide range of subjects, but it was said at the executive office in behalf of the President to be without significance, while the senator himself indicated that he had no special questions to take up. He was deeply interested, Mr. Fess said, in the prospect of fishing on Lake Osgood.

The senator is passing some time with friends at Loon lake, 30 miles from White Pine camp, and before Mr. Coolidge left Washington arrangements were made for him to visit the President for a day or two here.

The coming of visitors has served to postpone the departure of Mr. Coolidge for Plymouth, Vt., which he had planned for early this week, and today he let it be known that the date for that visit can not be definitely set now.

Indications are that Mr. Coolidge has decided to remain here perhaps until around Labor day.

Manila, July 20 (By A. P.).—The Philippine senate today passed over Gov. Gen. Wood's veto a bill providing for a plebiscite on the question of independence.

The governor general vetoed the bill last year on the ground that such a measure exceeded the powers of the legislature. Manuel Quezon, president of the senate, said the bill is still valid because the Jones law, the organic act of the islands, did not prohibit such legislation.

The senate also passed over the governor general's veto a bill dividing the province of Misamis into provinces.

The house is expected to pass the plebiscite bill, which permits both males and females over 21 years of age to vote.

COMMISSIONER FENNING RESIGNS.

Frederick A. Fenning has resigned as commissioner of the District. This was to be expected. The causes that led up to this action are past history. The career of Mr. Fenning as a member of the local governing body is a dead issue, and what the public at large is now most interested in is the man who will fill the vacancy.

Washington demands the best government that can be given and that comes only through the selection of the best men who have the time and talent to devote to the public service. The Capital City has reached that stage in its growth and development where ability greater than those of the average city councilman are required to properly administer its affairs.

President Coolidge has a difficult problem before him. Its solution will be easier if he takes careful note of the men who seek to advise him and analyzes their reasons for pressing candidates for this office. Selection should be based solely upon the qualifications of the man, and in determining the fitness of any one he may have in mind, the President should listen only to those in whom he places the utmost confidence. The commissioners of the District is an office of unusual importance at this time and only a big man can fill it. The people of Washington have confidence in the President and expect him to find such a man.

At any rate there are fewer heat prostrations in towns where it is harder to get a drink.

POWERFULLY POTENT.

Down in the Indian Territory before the State of Oklahoma was carved out, history as recorded by the late Col. Bill Sterett tells that on one occasion a jack rabbit chattered pursued by a pack of dogs stopped to drink. It happened that a cowboy passing over that stretch of the prairie a few minutes previously had dropped his flask. The cork flew out as the dazed bunny reached the spot. The trickling fluid attracted him and he quaffed, or lapped, the "licker." The effect was instantaneous. Instead of continuing his terrified course away from the hounds that timorous rodent retraced his leaps far more expeditiously than he had leapt before, attacked the entire pack and completely routed every dog.

It is not the story of the metamorphosis of a timid rabbit into a raging beast of prey that comes from the former Indian Territory today. Two officers of the law, acting under authority of the badges supplied them by State and city to look after and apprehend violators of the prohibition law, as reported in an Associated Press dispatch from Muskogee, quaffed some of that fearful stuff which passes as "booze" in the Southwest with even more dire results than occurred when the jack rabbit got drunk on the same sort of "hooch."

They entered a small hotel and began to terrorize the occupants. They shot up a few fixtures and drove the guests out. Entering two other places they were more successful. They have thirteen notches on their guns and clubs, for they used both, and thus upheld the majesty of the law. There is no question about it, Oklahoma "licker" is powerful stuff for men as well as jack rabbits.

Shopping took longer in the old days when mother had to smell each pound of butter before selecting one.

TEMPORARY CLERKS' LEAVE.

Something may be said on both sides of the controversy recently precipitated between the office of the comptroller general and representatives of the "temporary" government workers, as to whether or not such employees are entitled to vacations. The comptroller general has recently ruled they are not, and his voice is law to chiefs of the divisions employing such labor. However, there are many government workers, so classified, who are holding down full time positions. They have been coming to work at the same hours as the full time workers for considerable periods of time, many of them, and they have been working the standard number of hours. Present day thought is that vacations are necessary to maintain efficiency, and the comptroller general should recognize that fact. Part time workers who have been employed over a stated period not only should be entitled to a vacation, but forced to take one.

There is another side to the question. Regular government clerks are entitled to 30 days' vacation each year, or at the rate of 2 1/2 days a month. The conclusion of many that short period part time workers are entitled to take leave with pay in this manner would seem to be scarcely justified. Clerks of this class, in the strictest sense of the word, possibly may not be entitled to vacations. Those who, working over long periods, unfortunately are merely classified as temporary, should be placed on an equality with their fellows.

The humanitarian attitude for the comptroller general to take would be to get forth, if possible, and until such time as the matter can be disposed of by law, a definite time period of service for temporary employees beyond which the right to leave with pay will be automatically established.

"Suave" describes a statesman who was merely slick before he got elected.

UNREST IN ALSACE.

Alsace and Lorraine, the two provinces which France lost to Germany following the Franco-Prussian war in '71 and which were restored to the republic by the treaty of Versailles, show symptoms of the unrest which has spread throughout Europe in the past seven years. Recently a number of residents of the provinces signed a manifesto in which they set forth in violent language their supposed grievances. Among the signers were many holding state office and these were promptly relegated to private life by the authorities of the republic.

Now it is said an appeal to the league of nations is contemplated. It is doubtful if the appeal, when made, will receive any consideration for the "self-determination" policy advocated by President Wilson would scarcely be considered as applicable in a case of this kind. Alsace is bounded on the east by the Rhine and adjoins the kingdom of Bavaria. Lorraine, the smaller of the two, lies to the northwest of Alsace. The population is as much Teutonic as Gallic, perhaps, racially, more so. Following the thirty years war Louis XIV took over the sovereignty from the Germans and Alsace-Lorraine remained French until the fall of Metz and the surrender at Sedan in 1871.

Charlemagne offered the inhabitants of the territory now known as Alsace-Lorraine an autonomous government as an independent duchy, but the offer was not accepted. France, continued through republics and monarchies to maintain her sovereignty, although Germany for more than two centuries kept a covetous eye on the rich lands of the region. Then came Bismarck, the empire builder, after the "debauch" and the surrender of Napoleon III. The return of Alsace-Lorraine to the newly created German empire was part of the indemnity demanded—and paid. From 1871, when the treaty between France and Germany was signed, until June 16, 1919, which witnessed the formal ending of the world war, Alsace-Lorraine remained German.

Probably had not France continued her warlike operations in Morocco and Syria the 1,874,000 citizens added to her population through the treaty of Versailles would have accepted conditions without further protest. But the unrest manifested throughout Europe, and especially in France, which has grown out of existing economic conditions, may be largely responsible for the creation of a situation not yet very serious and which is quite unlikely to result in another autonomous state on the German border.

It happens to us all, and some day the world will read: "Batted for Ruth in the ninth."

RAILROAD FREIGHT RATES.

When Congress passed the Hoch-Smith resolution requesting and directing the Interstate Commerce Commission to investigate existing freight rates on agricultural products and live stock with a view to eliminating discriminations and inequalities in rates and to fix rates based on the low prices of farm products, the Western railroads immediately petitioned the commission for a 5 per cent increase in rates.

Extensive hearings were held throughout the Western territory for the purpose of ascertaining the facts which might determine a decision in both the application of the farmers and the application of the railroads. The same evidence covered the application for a decrease and the application for an increase.

The commission has decided there is no financial emergency among the Western railroads warranting the request for a 5 per cent increase in rates. Most of the Western railroads have failed to have a net operating income of 5 per cent fixed as a basis for rates; nevertheless the commission decides that in advance of a final determination of the actual value or present worth of the invested capital, as required by law, there is no warrant for a 5 per cent increase.

At the same time, the commission, replying to the requests embodied in the Hoch-Smith resolution, says that while there are doubtless inequalities and discriminations in existing rates, there is not sufficient evidence so far to warrant a general reduction of rates on agricultural products and live stock. Thus the commission denies the request of both the carriers and the agriculturists. However it leaves the latter open.

In the days of long ago when small boys wore copped shoes with red tops many of them had printed on those red tops which declared that "it is not wealth, nor rank, nor state, it's git up and git that makes boys great." But in this generation, and more particularly during the past few years the youngster who can knuckle down tight and drive the other chap's marbles out of the ring is regarded as the "greatest hero of America." This honor for 1926 has just been attached to the name of Willis Harper, who is declared the winner of the annual national marble tournament. Willis is a Kentucky kid, 11 years old, and if he keeps on he will be as famous as Sergeant York of the adjoining State of Tennessee before the next world war.

AMERICA'S BUYING POWER.

During the last fiscal year ended June 30, the American people bought and consumed approximately $30,000,000,000 of domestic goods and commodities, including food; and at the same time bought and consumed more than $4,000,000,000 of foreign imported goods and commodities, including food. In twelve months the American people consumed more than $34,000,000,000 worth of manufactured and agricultural commodities, including food. America's buying and consuming power is the greatest of all countries; and measures the prosperity of its people.

What is the explanation? In 1925 the estimated total wages paid American workmen and workwomen exceeded $12,000,000,000. This does not include the millions paid in salaries to executive officials and other officers in industrial establishments, which is estimated to be another billion dollars!

There are approximately 9,000,000 wage earners in the industrial establishments of the United States. It is estimated by the Department of Labor that every wage earner spends about 40 cents of every dollar for food. It is thus obvious that the American wage earners in industries spend approximately $4,800,000,000 for food; approximately 20 per cent, or $2,400,000,000, for clothing; and the balance for rent, taxes, interest and what once were called luxuries.

The United States is the greatest and richest market in the world, and the people of the United States have an enormous purchasing and consuming power. In this market American producers and manufacturers are able to sell from 80 to 90 per cent of all they produce and manufacture.

They've caught a nobleman who made bad debts in eleven countries. What a diplomat he might have been!

AID FOR DEPENDENTS.

Representative Guy E. Campbell's proposed amendment to the retirement bill designed to provide for the dependents of government employees arouses much interest. Briefly, it provides that if a person receiving retirement compensation should die leaving a dependent or dependents, the survivor would receive annually, under certain conditions, a sum equal to half the amount received by the deceased per year, payable in monthly installments during the lifetime of the survivor.

The bill also provides that no payments are to be made to any child over 16 years of age, unless totally incapacitated and without means of support; and further, that the survivor or survivors, must have been totally dependent upon the deceased at the time of passage of the act, or for a period of fifteen years, and are without other sufficient means of support or income.

Since it is generally admitted that it is impossible for the government worker to put by any save an infinitesimal part of his meager salary, this proposal has much to commend it. Because no individual can do his best with the constant specter before him of improperly provided for old age for both himself and his family, such a law would do much to increase the efficiency of government personnel. Designed as an amendment to existing legislation, and incorporating the necessary safeguards, the bill could be passed with little opposition.

Joseph was a hard guy. There were seven lean years in Egypt and he didn't grant the farmers a subsidy.

LOANS TO FARMERS.

During the week ended July 10 the Federal Intermediate Credit banks made direct loans and rediscuts of $75,821,611. Direct loans were $32,381,940 and rediscuts were $43,439,670. Of the direct loans $12,919,530 were on tobacco, $12,745,000 on cotton and $3,600,000 were on raisins.

Other loans were on canned fruit and vegetables, wool, alfalfa seed, rice, coffee, olive oil and wheat. Rediscuts were: $30,632,669 to agricultural credit corporations; $476,856 to State banks; $12,882,718 to loan and live stock companies; the balance to savings banks, trust companies and national banks.

The Federal Intermediate Credit banks were established at the request of farmers and farm organizations for the specific purpose of aiding producers and farm organizations by extending Federal credit in cases where the law would not permit further credit from established credit institutions.

Federal loans exceeding $75,800,000 in one week ought to be sufficient to demonstrate the good will of the Federal administration to American farmers and producers.

Capt. Victor Bleasdale, of the marine corps, is a firm believer in the accuracy of his machine gunners when aiming at a target. To demonstrate his faith he walks "a straight line," 10 inches wide, between two barrages every day during target practice. But Capt. Bleasdale is not the only man in the corps who takes such risks. Wherever the leather-necks are practicing the art of machine gun firing some of the men appear holding up a target four feet square at which the gunners direct a constant volley from their weapons. These targets are carried toward the gunners and resemble slaves when the firing ceases. So far as recorded there has never been a fatality among the target carriers, although the shots strike within a few inches of their bodies. It takes nerve to walk through a barrage or to carry a target as well as confidence in the skill of the gunners.

For 43 years John B. Randolph has been a clerk in the office of the Secretary of War, and he is still the assistant chief clerk in that department, at the age of 82. Mr. Randolph has been reappointed for another period of two years. Secretary Davis, in asking for authority to make the reappointment, advised the civil service commission that "by reason of his knowledge of precedents, his general historical knowledge pertaining to the War Department, his general efficiency and willingness to remain, his continuance therein would be advantageous to the public service." Mr. Randolph was born in Washington and is living proof of the healthfulness of this climate.

The Worst Story I Heard Today—By Will Rogers

The Worst Joke I heard today was told to me by Charles Cunningham, of Madrid, Spain. Charles is our Commercial Attache for Spain. In other words, he looks after all the business deals that guys try to put over to get concessions and do business in that country. He is an old Austin, Texas, boy; was educated at Berkeley, Calif., and won some kind of a scholarship and came to Spain. When he finished he stayed here and has been in the service six years. Say, but that old boy can really "Hable Espanol" may be. He is just an old country-looking boy about like me and we got on fine together. He acted as the interpreter when I had an interview with Premier Rivera who is their local Mussolini. He gave me quite a lot of dope on Spain as he knows all about it.

He told me this one I had never heard; a negro recruiting story. A negro claimed exemption on account of having a wife to support. "Who's going to take care of my wife?" he asked. Another well-dressed, slick-looking colored person stepped up as he had overheard the conversation and asked: "What kind of a looking lady is this wife of yours?"

PRESS COMMENT.

Doug Waits for a Train.

New York World: It comes as a distinct shock to learn that Doug and Mary waited two days in Warsaw for a train to take them to Moscow. Until now we had supposed that Doug never waits for anything. If we had been told that he was marooned in Warsaw we should have expected him to do a back handspring upon the back of an eagle and arrive in Moscow within 20 minutes. It is most annoying to find out that he is made of flesh and blood like the rest of us and subject to the same delays and disappointments. Doug should manage things better. Less dangerous crossings, less saving the strain on the driver's mental machinery and his car's brakes. It is thought that a few headlong plunges into this elastic steel curtain will ultimately persuade him that his neck is worth saving. A better way would be to deprive him of his automobile.

The Dumbest Human.

Wabash Plain Dealer: The dumbest of human beings is the reckless auto driver. Safety campaigns have been tried on him to no avail. Crossing gates are built for his benefit; nice large white signs are painted for him; policemen stand ready to arrest him. Still he insists on killing himself and others. It is proposed now to install steel curtains at a few dangerous crossings as an experiment. This ought to work, but something tells us it won't. When a train is due, the curtain automatically lowers, thus saving the strain on the driver's mental machinery and his car's brakes. It is thought that a few headlong plunges into this elastic steel curtain will ultimately persuade him that his neck is worth saving. A better way would be to deprive him of his automobile.

Mussolini Diagnoses Himself.

Topeka Daily Capital: A magazine quotes the words of Mussolini: "I am like the animals. I can feel the future as it approaches. Some instinct guides and warns me. My blood speaks! I must listen to my blood." There have been other great men in the same self-hypnotic state of mind as the Italian tyrant, and usually when they waked up it has been to a tragic finish. Feeling the future and listening to the blood is probably no more than a mental disorder, which is ordinarily curable, however, only by rough treatment.

Vision Out of Focus.

Milwaukee Sentinel: Many of us have regretted the loss of Senator Cummins, but we can not share his fear that his personal eclipse means the breaking up and extinction of the Republican party. In appraising the relative strength of Republicans and Democrats, the senator's usually keen political vision is hopelessly out of focus.

Mexico's Godlessness.

Brooklyn Eagle: Mexico didn't need to advertise her godlessness by flats against organized religion. Most of us would have taken it for granted, without the slightest attempt at argument.

A National Shrine.

New York Evening Post: Monticello, the home of Thomas Jefferson, has at last been made a national shrine. This home on the little mountain overlooking the Jefferson estate long since passed out of the family of the author of the Declaration. For years efforts have been made to raise the necessary $600,000 for its purchase. It is now, as it should have been a generation ago, dedicated to the na-

Democracy and Good Manners

By GLENN FRANK.

WHEN all the bolshevist revolutions and bourbon restorations have had their little days and have become dead memories, humanity may set out on the high adventure of a revolution to end revolution.

And the only plank in the platform of this revolution to end revolutions will be: Good manners.

Good manners by all, for all, and of all!

And this slogan will be no mere invention of a phrasemaker; the insight of the philosopher will give it birth.

For good manners is the greatest common divisor of all those fighting phrases around which have clustered the aspirations and antagonisms of men.

Liberty and fraternity and equality! Justice and humility and mercy!

All these are reducible to simple good manners. Thorstein Veblen and Sidney Webb, in their studies of the leisure class and the working class, have shown us how the manners of men mirror the sort of civilization in which they live.

A certain kink of social order or social class will breed a certain kind of manners.

It is interesting to compare the manners of the old nobility of ancient times with the manners of the new rich of modern times.

The old nobility was a leisure class. The old nobles lived off other people's labor.

But, for all that, they were not purposeless men. They stood aloof from industrial toil, but they paid their way, after all, by furnishing society with its statesmen and soldiers, its philosophers and artists.

They were distinguished by their conspicuous service. The new rich is a leisure class.

Like the old nobles, the new rich often stand aloof from productive labor, but unlike the old nobles, they are often purposeless men.

They are often distinguished only by their conspicuous spending. The gracious manners in personal relations and the great service in public relations that marked the old nobles give way, in the new rich, to social snobbery in personal relations and social irresponsibility in public relations.

But as democracy spreads in any society good manners in personal relations which is gracefulness and good manners in public relations which is great service must come to mark not one class, but all classes.

The good manners of the dinner table applied to all human relations will be the starting point and marching orders of the revolution to end revolutions.

The resources of the world are to the human race what the food on our dinner table is to our guests. And the spirit of the social order, like the etiquette of the dinner table, finds its highest expression in the absence of greed and the attainment of gracefulness whose other name is justice.

As a truly national shrine, it has a place with Mount Vernon, that other Virginia homestead, in the heart of the nation. Bought by national subscriptions and dedicated with patriotic ceremony on the 150th anniversary of the master work of its builder, it is more than the home of Thomas Jefferson. It stands as a memorial to a great American and a great apostle of democracy.

The Screen Door Test. Terre Haute Tribune: A Rockville woman says you can tell whether a man is married by the way he goes through a screen door. If he closes the screen carefully and shoes off the flies, he's married.

A Typical Community. Philadelphia Record: Canton, Ohio, where a newspaper editor has just been shot down by unknown assassins, is probably a typical American community. Nine murders have occurred this year, and only two of them have been solved. Theoretically the people, like all proud and independent Americans, govern themselves. But most of the voters vote as a hand-

Anticipating Trouble. Cincinnati Enquirer: The French and English have signed a new debt agreement. But that's no sign that other trouble between them may not develop.

Needless Debate. Indianapolis News: President Coolidge said that less time than usual was wasted in needless debate during the last session of Congress, but Vice President Dawes may have another idea about what constitutes needless debate.

How England Does It. Detroit Free-Press: Under English law the criminal justice act, now in effect, the minimum penalty for drunken drivers is four months in prison or a fine of $50, or both. "They do some things better abroad."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Sunday at the Sesqui.

To the Editor of The Post.—Sir: Your editorial on the opening of the sesquicentennial on Sundays is of special interest. The action of those in authority, which includes not only officials, but those influencing them, has a practical side, and the problem should be considered.

The demands of the public should conform to the guidance of all interested peoples, and that the financial side of the undertaking is worthy of regard should not be overlooked.

The drawing of the masses from church attendance during the summer months is assumed to be the basis of the clerical objections. This may well be regarded as the practical aspect of the churches.

Therefore practical methods may well be considered in the solution. Apart from the truth that open Sundays at the exhibition will allow many to enjoy its benefits who otherwise would be denied the same we should be able to find an agreement between opposites.

Let us suggest that at least one auditorium be filled each Sunday on the exposition grounds with services of not less than two denominations. One at from 10 or 11 in the forenoon and another from 3 or 4 in the afternoon. These should be an hour each and should be resting hours, at which times the best of preaching and music could be supplied.

It is believed that a daily session at the auditorium with good speakers and music would attract many and supply needed restful opportunities even during week days. CHARLES FRANKLIN BENNETT, Washington, July 3.

Sweeping and Eating.

To the Editor of The Post.—Sir: You have from time to time made suggestions along the lines of a clean bill of health for the nation, but you have overlooked one important item—that of sweeping while patrons are trying to enjoy a meal. It only needs a suggestion from your paper, to the health department of the nation's Capital, to bring about a condition that seems to be the aim of The Washington Post, to look after the interests and health of the citizens of Washington. J. C. LYONS, Washington, July 19.

Whelps.

To the Editor of The Post.—Sir: Senator Borah uses some very strong language in his speech in Augusta, Ga., as published in today's Washington Post. People who are becoming agitated at the imposition of multitudinous laws and restrictions and wish a check on them are called as "whelps" and "multiplicationists." If there is anything that has helped more to nullify and throw into disrepute not only our Constitution but the eighteenth amendment, and its ramifications I do not know of it. It would not be bad policy for some of the overzealous to use their nose in their own kennels first. True Wharley, &c., begins at home. FRED T. HAFELPINGER, Washington, July 19.

How England Does It.

Detroit Free-Press: Under English law the criminal justice act, now in effect, the minimum penalty for drunken drivers is four months in prison or a fine of $50, or both. "They do some things better abroad."

Apartments Spring Up in Places Where Once Rich Mansions Stood.

SOME STILL MAINTAIN A STURDY FOOTHOLD

Even Business Buildings Do Honor by Their Beauty to Old Traditions.

Chicago, July 20 (By A. P.).—Like the brownstone fronts and chateaux of Fifth avenue society lands, the mansions of Chicago's famous "Gold Coast" are passing into the limbo of forgotten things. The "Gold Coast" still is there, richer and more magnificent than ever, but just as on Fifth avenue, business and the symbol of mass habitation, the towering apartment hotel, are rapidly encroaching on that lakeside mile of territory between Chicago avenue and the North avenue entrance to Lincoln park on the near north side.

The sound of the wreckers and of the builder now are constantly heard along Lake Shore drive and Michigan avenue, as the pretentious stone dwellings of the socially elect go the way of all buildings in the route of progress.

Apartments Spring Up. Nearly a dozen tall apartment structures have been built or are being built along the route, while commercial buildings, whose intrusion was vigorously fought by residents, also are springing up. The commercial structures, however, grace, rather than mar, the aristocratic neighborhood in which they have taken root. An insurance company, for instance, is housed in a graceful reproduction of a French chateau and except for a modest, almost invisible sign carrying the name of the concern, no one would suspect that behind the costly facade, business is being transacted.

"The Gold Coast" once was one of the show places of Chicago. Here is the famous Potter Palmer castle, scene of social festivities of other days, but closed for many years until some of the younger members of the family decided to use it again.

McCormick Home Remains. Another dwelling that has escaped the wreckers is the town home of Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, which with its lawn, a real luxury in that quarter of high-priced realty, occupies a block on the drive.

Farther north is the home of the late Victor Lawson, former publisher of the Chicago Daily News. It has an air of desertion, now that the famous publisher's study light no longer gleams on the second floor. Among the more modern single dwellings on the "coast" is a reproduction of the Petite Trianon near the entrance to Lincoln Park.

Traffic Ends Exclusion. But the exclusiveness of this short strip of single dwellings was shattered long before the advent of hotels, multiplied apartments and business. Facing on the main northside artery of travel, the drive through 24 hours roars to the increasing traffic of buses and motor cars.

And facing the Oak street beach, it is overrun in summer months by thousands of bathers, most of them from the desolated regions of the west side. Now the drive is to be widened to twice its present size, and in the ever-broadening activity incident to a city's commercial and residential expansion the real "Gold Coast" soon may be only a memory.

Hundreds at Opening Of Church Festival. Hundreds of vari-colored electric lights lent radiance to the garden party given last night by the parish of St. Francis de Sales' Catholic church, for the benefit of the new church building at 2011 Rhode island avenue northeast. The Rev. J. E. Malloy, the pastor, was in charge. More than 500 persons attended.

Radiating from a large pole surmounted by the American flag were streamers and bulbs attached to the various booths, spread over the lawn. Music was by the Columbus band. The fete will close tomorrow night, the feature this evening being a baby contest at which Walter Johnson, pitching ace of the Washington baseball club, will be judge.

Ban on Station Fountain.

The Columbus fountain at Union station plaza has been barred for bathing and wading use by the office of public buildings and public parks for sanitary reasons, prompted by the reuse of water in that fountain.

THE Minister of Egypt and Mme. Samy Pasha were guests in whose honor the First Secretary of the Peruvian Embassy and Mme. Alfredo Gonzales Prada entertained at dinner last evening in their home on Eighteenth street, when there were twelve guests.

The charge d'affaires of Roumania, Mr. Radu T. Djuvara, who has been passing the week-end in New York at the Ambassador hotel, will return to Washington this afternoon.

The Second Secretary of the Cuban Embassy and Senora Dona Corina G de Rodriguez-Capote, who passed several days in Hot Springs, Va., are now on a vacation at the Balsam hotel, Bickville Notch, N. H., where they will pass about two weeks.

Visiting in Virginia.

Mrs. Julian J. Mason, Miss Maud Marshall Mason, and Mr. Julian J. Mason have been, since July 3, at the estate of Mrs. Mason's mother, Mrs. George T. Marshall, in Orange County, Va., Mrs. Marshall having previously passed a month at Atlantic City. Miss Mason is making a series of visits in the North and will rejoin her family in Orange after attending the wedding of her cousin, Miss Laura Winder Marshall, at Spring Lake, N. J., August 17, at which she will be a bridesmaid.

Miss Sidney Neale, daughter of Mrs. S. C. Neale, departed Monday for Norfolk, Conn., where she will visit her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Burdett, for several weeks.

Mrs. Alonzo Tyner has closed her apartment at Wardman Park, and accompanied by her daughter, Miss Margaret Tyner, and her son, Mr. John Tyner, departed yesterday for Chicago to pass a few days before going to the west coast to remain until September. They will then return to the East, when Mr. Tyner will depart for Oxford to resume his studies and Miss Tyner will return to school in Paris.

Ritter—Bell Nuptials.

The marriage of Miss Anita Owen Bell and Mr. William McClellan Ritter took place yesterday at noon at the Hotel Jefferson, Richmond, Va., the Rev. Robert J. Bamber, of the First Christian church, Petersburg, Va., officiating. The room was decorated in palms and lilies and the bride wore a gown of flesh color Elizabeth crepe and a picture hat to match. Mrs. Howard E. Wright, violinist, and Mrs. Charles Luther Guthrie, pianist, both of Petersburg, gave a short program preceding the ceremony. Mrs. Guthrie is a sister of the bride. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Ritter started for a trip to Europe and on their return will make their home at 2223 Massachusetts avenue, this city.

The guests at the wedding included Mr. Arthur E. Needles, Roanoke, Va.; Mr. Edwin Mann, Bluefield, W. Va.; and Mr. James I. Hammill and Mr. Landon C. Bell, Columbus, Ohio, the former home of Mr. Ritter.

President Coolidge sent a telegram which read: "My sincere congratulations and good wishes for the future to you both."

Miss Sophie Beale, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert S. Beale, who will be a debutante this season, has departed for Rehoboth Beach, Del., where she will remain until August 1.

Miss Allison Roberling, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur O'Brien, will be among the debutantes of the coming season.

Miss Hallie Brooke, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Mark Brooke, arrived Sunday from the South, and will depart today for Bar Harbor, Maine, to be the guest of Miss Lydia Archbold, daughter of Mrs. Anne Archbold, of this city. Miss Brooke will later visit in Newport, R. I.

Miss Simpson Becomes Bride.

At noon yesterday the marriage of Miss Helen Simpson, daughter of Dr. John French Simpson, to Mr. Raymond Paul Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gustaf John Johnson, of Paxton, Ill., took place at St. Margaret's church. The wedding was simply arranged, only members of the families and close friends attending.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, and Miss Joan Harding was maid of honor. The bride wore a gown of shell pink georgette with a hat to match and carried sweetheart roses and lilies of the valley. Her maid of honor was gown in blue georgette and carried cream roses and blue delphinium. The bridegroom had as his best man his brother, Mr. Lester Wylie Johnson, of Paxton. Shortly after the wedding a luncheon was given in honor of the bride and bridegroom at the Willard hotel.

After a short trip in the South, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will be at home at 1825 Kalorama road.

Former Senator and Mrs. Hoke Smith, who have been at the Willard for a week, returned yesterday to their home in Atlanta.

Mr. and Mrs. Duncan Jay, 52 Grammercy Park, North, New York, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Frances Joy Bagnell, to Commander George McCall Courts, U. S. N., at the residence of the bride's parents July 8. Commander Courts has been appointed naval attaché of the American embassy at Tokyo, Japan.

Monsignor Burke Here.

Monsignor Alfredo E. Burke is at the Willard, where he arrived yesterday. He will pass several days in Washington, but will go shortly to New York, whence he will sail for Rome, where he makes his home.

Mrs. Kenneth Mills and daughter, Miss Elizabeth Mills, of Miami, Fla., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Mills, of this city.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hall, of Philadelphia, are passing a few days in Washington and are at the Willard.

Among tourists registered at the Park Place hotel at Traverse City, Mich., last week were Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Smith and J. K. Smith, of Washington.

ARLINGTON COUNTY JOINS MOVEMENT TO RETAIN RAILWAY

Loss of Washington-Virginia Car Service Seen as Disaster.

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST,
Clarendon, Va.
Tel. Clr. 509.
Confronted with the danger of losing the Washington-Virginia railway, the board of directors of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, meeting yesterday in the office of Secretary C. Eugene Doyle in the Clarendon Trust building, indorsed the stand taken by the Fairfax Chamber of Commerce looking to continuance of the service. President Clarence A. Ahalt, upon motion of M. E. Church, will appoint a committee to assist the Fairfax chamber in its undertaking.

Following considerable discussion, it was brought out that the road was started in 1892 and has since that time greatly aided in the development of Arlington and Fairfax counties. Service on the road was extended to Falls Church in 1894.

"Should the service be discontinued the loss in property values
in Arlington and Fairfax counties
would be hard to estimate," declared Ashton C. Jones. Continuing, Mr. Jones said: "While there are sections of Arlington county
that have good bus service there are hundreds of citizens further in the county, and extending to Fairfax, that would be greatly affected, not only in property values, but they would have no means of getting to and from Washington. There is no question but where there is good car service that section is bound to be benefited. Take the road away and the citizens of both Arlington and Fairfax counties will soon see the effect it will have."

While the chamber took no definite action in approving selection of the southern route for the Lee boulevard, it did go on record as deploring the unfavorable publicity and unjust statements that have been made by citizens in some sections of the county.

Discussing the boulevard situation, M. E. Church said: "Knowing those who have worked on the project, I don't believe there is one that would be a party to anything questionable; let those who are opposing the selection come out with a better route, and, if proven, perhaps the one selected could be changed."

President Ahalt announced that one of the most important subjects
for the board to decide was the selection of an all-time secretary.
"If we hope to do anything worth while we must have an experienced secretary who can direct," he said.

Following reading of a number of applications by the president,
upon a motion by William S. Hope, Jr., a committee consisting of the president, Ashton C. Jones and K.
A. Brumback was appointed with instructions to make recommendations as to the selection of a man
at the next meeting.

Thieves Rob 8 Houses Of Edibles and Wine

Hagerstown, Md., July 20.—Police are seeking the burglars who robbed eight houses in Lettersburg between midnight and 2 a. m. today. In nearly every instance entrance was effected through the cellar.

The plunder included provisions and wine, but little money. The houses looted were those of the Rev. I. D. Worman, Dr. J. H. Wis-
ard, M. S. Stoner, George Beard, Levi Harlie, Miss Maude Ground,
J. J. Lowman and Arthur Newcomer.

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

Hands Off.

DEAR Miss McDonald: If you can find time and space to discuss an unusual question and a peculiar situation, I will certainly appreciate it.

The question is one of a girl-to-girl loyalty. I am a business girl reasonably happy myself. Should I try to continue in touch with the girl in question when her family forbids her seeing me or communicating with me in any way and my own people who are no doubt prejudiced in the matter forbid my trying to see her—or mix up in her affairs.

I am handicapped by an incomplete knowledge of all the facts, and did not deem it my duty to investigate a friend's affairs.

The girl in question is a young married woman who has had a stormy matrimonial career beginning in a romantic elopement which angered her parents. From what she told me it seems that he was cruel, shiftless, and a gambler, who starved his little family, and raised merry hell on each occasion when there seemed prospect of a member of said family, denying his responsibility in the matter on each occasion. She left him twice and returned to her family.

She quarreled with her people and I understand they put her out and did what they could to keep her from securing any employment. However, she did find some laboring work to do and tried to get along and considering all handicaps did very well, and was beginning to spruce up a bit. Her people and husband from whom she had a limited divorce by this time kept after her, so both she and her husband refused any longer to board the children—said he could not afford it—and threatened to put them in an orphanage unless she came back. She went back. Another child is the result. He carried on worse than before and bullied her into writing a statement that the child was not his—and immediately started divorce proceedings on the ground of her infidelity stated in this confession.

The whole affair seems a horrid mess. It is now going through the

Neat Housekeeping in the Garden

DEAR JIMMY: The finest gardens I've ever seen—that is, those in which the plants were the finest—have been scrupulously neat in several important respects. Looking through them you couldn't find a single weed, a faded flower or broken stem. The impression was unavoidable that they were painstakingly cared for every day—not in a foolishly finicky way, but with thought for their real peculiarities and needs.

There's nothing strange about this situation, when you give it a little thought. Neatness comes from good care, and care, properly directed, means better results in almost any activity you want to name. The things I want to bring out now are not these rather obvious truisms, but rather the specific details and reasons for the results they produce.

Take the matter of passe flowers, for one thing.

When a plant ripens its seed its life cycle for the year is done. The life cycle has been completed and it can sit back and take things easy for whatever weeks or months of good weather remain before frost. The result is, it makes no further effort to produce flowers. But if you interrupt that effort by removing the old blossoms before the seeds within them have really formed, you nip the big job before it is complete and, other things being equal, the plant will try again with more flowers. Thus, keeping the old flowers picked off means an actual extension of the blooming season, to say nothing of the greater neatness it presents to the gardener's eye.

When it comes to the removal of broken stalks and the like, of that as old Uncle Ben Olansted used to put it, you'll find a different situation. Here, too, appearance is a factor, but perhaps a more important reason is that such damaged growth, left where it hangs or lies, not infrequently leads to infection of the sound portions of the plants with insect pests or the germs of disease. No thorough-going gardener would allow such disabled things to lie around, any more than he would permit the end of a finger that had fought a buzz-saw to dangle around by a shred of skin. He knows that any injury heals better if the injured part is out of the way.

Don't think for a minute, Jimmy, that I'm urging you and Peg to prow around all the time with a spyglass, scissors and a first-aid

INGRATITUDE.

Let not ingratitude your heart de- base.
Be not embittered by the sins of men.
Stand ready ever to be kind again.
All memory of unworthiness erase.
Do not with hatred nobleness re- place.
How shall you answer for your conduct when Judgment is passed? And shall it serve you then
To plead the wrong of others for your case?

Let not ungrateful brothers drag you down.
But keep your spirit kindly and serene.
Let not a mean acquaintance make you mean.
Bravest is he who smiles when others frown.
Strongest is he whose heart with kindness beats.
Despite the base ingratitude it meets.

May Restore Name To Yorktown's Hook

Yorktown, Va., July 20 (By A. P.).—Once again the spot at Yorktown whereon was fought the last skirmish of the revolutionary war will be known as "The Hook," its name for many years. If the movement sponsored by the Association for the Preservation of Virginia Antiquities is successful. The association hopes to discard the name "Hayes Store," which it has had for several years.

Marking the spot where Corn- walls, penned in at Yorktown, sought to get his troops across the York river and escape northward only to have the one company across meet the American and French forces at "The Hook," Hayes' store has attracted considerable attention from the thousands of tourists visiting Yorktown. The scene of the fight is marked with a tablet.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. W. A. EVANS

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation and prevention of disease, if matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit on the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations and where a stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease. Requests for such service can not be answered.

CONTROL OF CANCER.

THE cancer situation in certain fields is improving. Taking the field as a whole, cancer is yearly more and more of a menace, but there are sections where the disease is coming under control. Skin cancer is such a field. There is no reason why any one should die with skin cancer except those who now have the disease in an advanced stage and those who are ignorant or worse.

Skin cancer is easily diagnosed. It is curable. Even the quacks cure many of their cases.

Recently we told of cancer of the lips, cheeks and gums; how easily it was prevented, and the good prospects of cure, even in the well-developed cases. Even cancer of the tongue, until yesterday regarded as incurable, can be prevented and in many cases cured.

Cancer of the female organs is not as deadly as it was. At least, Dr. Bloodgood says that is the case among those who patronize Johns Hopkins hospital and St. Agnes' hospital in Baltimore. They have been keeping the record there since 1889. They came to this conclusion as a result of studying the cases coming in during the last twenty years and comparing with those that came in during the preceding twenty-year period.

And what is doing it? Not the hospitals, doctors, nurses or col- leges, but the newspapers. That's what Dr. Bloodgood said. He care- fully considered the evidence as to operative methods and results, hos- pital and nursing care, and then he took up the knowledge of cancer possessed by the women who came in for examination. These women knew more. They knew the signs of cancer better, and they acted quicker on what they observed. It was the newspapers that wised them. That told the story. Dr. Bloodgood said the female of the species about cancer of the breast.

If a woman feels a lump in her breast or thinks she does, she should have it examined the very next day. He says there are 50 chances to 1 that the lump she

BEAUTY AND YOU

A LOVELY THROAT-LINE.

HERE are two weak points where a woman first shows the signs of age. They are the hands and the throat, and the most revealing of these is the throat.

If you can keep the chin single, as it ought to be, the contour clear, the throat round and soft and white, unlined, you hold a safe for- tress. Your lovely throat-line and the correspondingly contented ex- pression of your eyes will take sev- eral years, at least, off your age.

There are many signs of age that are not, in themselves, unbecom- ing. They may even add dignity and graciousness; but a battered throat only succeeds in looking sad.

One of the first questions that you should ask yourself is, "Do I hold my chin up? Or do I let it sink perilously near my chest, push- ing down a fold of flesh where no extra fold should be?" Correct the head posture immediately, else all external means will be of little avail. Chin up and in, then ever so slightly relaxed for grace.

Here is an exercise that you can practice with benefit—ten times each night and morning, or when- ever you think of it. With the head up and eyes looking straight ahead, extend the chin. Then draw it in forcibly. This exercise is not only good for the muscles under the chin, but it is mentally invigorating.

If you see signs of an approach- ing flabby chin, you should use your astringent lotion with rather more than ordinary lavishness. Put a lump of ice in a clean linen towel, then pour on some of the astringent, and massage underneath the chin and down and around the neck with this. Do it rather vigorously, with a rotary motion.

Another time, I'll give you still more suggestions for beautifying the throat-line.

Tomorrow Viola Paris will ex- plain how to train stubbornly straight hair.

TRIPS AND TIPS.

TIPPING is a thing about which no absolute rules can be laid down, because some people re- quire little service and some a great deal. Some people can be lavish and some can't. Some want to give as much as they can afford, and some as little as they can get off with. The length of the journey by land and sea also makes a differ- ence. Yet tipping is a thing with which people unaccustomed to travel find it hard to cope, and about which they want absolute in- formation.

For car service, such as is given in a day or any part of a day's jour- ney, you have a porter, and some- times a portress, to fee. If the por- ter does nothing but brush your coat off, perhaps ten cents is suf- ficient. If he (or the portress) wait upon you in any way, or if he has your bags to take out of the car, 25 cents would be the least to give. The waiters in the dining-car get a tip of at least 10 per cent of each meal-bill. Some people even send money to the cooks. Porters who carry bags to and from the train generally get 25, 35 or possibly 50 cents, according to the number of bags and the distance they are car- ried. On night trains, the porter of the sleeping car might have 50 cents for making up the berth and brushing one's clothes. If the jour- ney should be a long one, it is bet- ter to fee at the end of each stage, rather than every night, and make a lump sum of it. From one to five dollars would be an average.

The New Paris Vogue Demands Decided Color Contrast

RENEE expresses this new trend most effectively in her "Toukay" frock, which is listed as one of the most im- portant of the newer modes.

In fact, "Toukay" is really a definite signpost of what may be expected as the style season advances. There is no questioning the prestige of crepe-back satin, used ingeniously on both the dull and shiny surfaces—and, of course, the new nine-fold skirt and the V-neck shoulder cape are both unchallengeable.

Filipinos Use Wheat More in Place of Rice

Manila, P. I., July 20 (By A. P.).

Consumption of wheat flour in the Philippines has increased in the last few years. Figures of the bureau of commerce and industry show that although rice is the chief staple Filipinos are using bread as a supplementary food generally and in some cases as their principal article of diet.

Wheat importations last year were 76,000 tons as compared with 45,000 tons in 1921. Four-fifths came from the United States.

Keeping Your Schoolgirl Complexion

Never Touch

Any but a true complexion soap to your face

Good complexions too priceless for experiment

THE only kind of soap to use on your face is a soap made basically for that purpose. Rinsing your complexion to an unproved soap is a folly.

Before Palmolive came, women were told "use no soap on your faces." Soaps then were judged too harsh.

Then came this famous beauty creation. A soap made by experts in beauty solely for ONE purpose: to safeguard the complexion. A soap made of rare cosmetic oils, to be used freely, lavishly on the skin. A soap, thus, that changed the beauty habits of the world.

Leading skin authorities urge it. Most of the pretty skins you see today are largely due to it. Launder, cleanse with any soap you wish. But when beauty is at stake, take care.

Start the day in the following way for one week... note the improve- ment in your skin.

The rule for gentle skin and pore cleansing Wash your face gently with Palmolive Soap, massaging it softly into the skin. Rinse thoroughly, first with warm water, then with cold. If your skin is inclined to be dry, apply a touch of good cold cream—that is all.

Do this regularly, and particularly in the evening. Use powder and rouge, if you wish. But never leave them on over night. They clog the pores, often enlarge them. Black- heads and disfigurements often fol- low. They must be washed away.

Get real Palmolive
Do not use ordinary soaps in the treatment given above. Do not think any green soap, or represented as of palm and olive oils, is the same as Palmolive.

It costs but 10c the cake!—so little that millions let it do for their bodies what it does for their faces. Obtain a cake today. Then note what an amazing difference one week makes. The Palmolive Com- pany (Del. Corp.), Chicago, Illinois, 3171

The charming young woman in the crepe frock with the oddly shaped applique trimming, is hospitably, about to offer Polly another glass of spiced lemonade. The Goofy, too, is suddenly attentive.

Polly Gets All the Attention

Polly wonders why she is getting all the service—as though Polly didn't look pretty enough in her shirred frock with the ridiculous little jacket to match to make any one want to be nice to her. (All rights protected by The George Mathew Adams Service—Trade Mark Registered U. S. Patent Office)

The lady with the very new and fashionable more hat is about to engage Polly in conversa- tion, and the hostess, who wears a gown of periwinkle blue, thinks that another glass of lemonade would satisfy.

As a matter of fact it isn't Polly's virtues—it's Mitzi's sins. Mitzi has found such an attrac- tive man and Mitzi is admiring him so whole- heartedly that no one has the cruelty to inter- fere.

INVESTMENT BANKERS WIND UP ACTIVE SEASON

Local Concerns Strike Summer Lull in Movement of Securities and Trading.

TREND TO RAILS GROWS

By F. W. PATTERSON.

While local investment bankers report a seasonal slowing up in the movement of securities here and many of them do not look for a revival of activities until September, except with the marketing of an occasional issue, most of them welcome the opportunity to take things somewhat easier, following a season of exceptional activity in investment securities, to say nothing of numerous hectic days in stock market transactions.

"The drift of buying from high priced, low-yielding bonds into rail shares, common and preferred, with established dividend records, is steadily increasing," said a prominent investment banker yesterday, who declared that during the last 60 days greater amounts of railroad stocks have been bought by investors than during the corresponding period for more than ten years, and that purchases of the rails for investment account has been one of the outstanding features of local buying.

The reason for the marked change for the better in the status of railroad shares is the improvement in earning power of the carriers and prospects that they will set earnings records this year, it was pointed out by the banker. Most of the more prominent transportation companies are earning their dividend requirements two to four times and their financial position is stronger than it has been for a decade or more.

Comparatively, carriers are not earning the 5 percent on property investment, which the Interstate Commerce Commission has fixed as a fair return, but at the rate of progress they are now making it would not be surprising if this goal were reached by the end of 1926.

Yesterday's session on the Washington Stock Exchange was little different in volume from the day before, but prices were stronger with tendency upward.

Washington Gas Light came in for most attention and, opening with an over-night gain of 4 points, changed hands at 63 1/2, with a ten-share turnover, while Washington Railway & Electric preferred was unchanged at 88 1/2.

Capital Tractor was fractionally up at 101. Georgetown Gas Light 5 1/2 sold to the extent of $1,000 at par, with asked therefor up to 10 1/2. Washington Gas 6 1/2 gained to 104 1/2 for the larger denomination, while the smaller sold at 103 1/2. Southern Building 6 1/2 advanced a full point to 102.

An offering of $8,000,000 additional first and consolidated mortgage 6 percent gold bonds, series "A," Seaboard Air Line Railway Co., is being made today by Dillon, Read & Co., Laidenbury, Thalmann & Co., and Kissel, Kinnicutt & Co., at 95 1/2 and interest to net 6.40 per cent. The bonds are dated September 1, 1925, and become redeemable as a whole, or in amounts of not less than $1,000,000 at any time, on any interest date, on 60 days' notice at 107 1/2 and accrued interest.

Proceeds will be used to further the Seaboard's expansion program, and previous financing being incident to the sizeable construction work undertaken by the railway.

Power Offerings.
Public offering will be made today of $18,500,000 first mortgage 5 percent series "C" bonds due 1936, of the West Penn Power Co., by a banking group made up of Dillon, Read & Co., Laidenbury, Thalmann & Co., Inc., W. C. Langley & Co., and Union Trust Co., of Pittsburgh.

The company owns and operates a system of electric power and high-voltage transmission lines, and has properties serving 437 communities in southwestern Pennsylvania with a population of 575,000. The proceeds of the present issue will be used to provide funds for the retirement of $6,000,000 first mortgage bonds, series D, 7 percent, to partly reimburse the company for funds expended in the purchase of the Conneville Power Station, for extensions and improvements, and for other purposes.

Booker Returns to City.
Y. E. Booker, of Y. E. Booker & Co., investment bankers, returned to the city last night following a visit to New York, which was made in the interest of his firm.

The District of Columbia, with fourteen States and the Hawaiian Islands, have completed their assigned quotas to the American Bankers Association Educational Foundation of $500,000, according to announcement yesterday by J. Edgar P. Faxon, Jr., chairman of the committee in charge of the foundation. The cash now in hand, the report shows, amounts to more than half of the amount of the foundation, and, under the direction of the Washington chapter, American Institute of Banking, and chapters throughout the country assumed a portion of the amount to be raised as a part of the silver jubilee celebration and in recognition of what the parent organization had done for the Institute. The task of raising the local quota was taken over by the Alumni Association, and, under the direction of J. J. McQuade, president, the sum was quickly raised and forwarded

CLEVELAND RALLIES IN SIXTH TO BEAT NATS, 9-2

Rickard Loses Last Move In N. Y.

Promoter Also Fails to Close Bargain in Chicago.

Dempsey's Manager Denies All Claims But Tex's.

New York, July 20 (By A. A.).—The State athletic commission today by a vote of 2 to 1 refused to reconsider its stand in opposition to holding the Dempsey-Tunney heavy-weight title match in New York.

CHICAGO, July 20 (By A. P.).—While Tex Rickard dickered today for a Chicago location in which he may bring Jack Dempsey out of retirement in September to defend his world heavy-weight boxing title against Gene Tunney, Gene Normile, the champion's manager, arrived from Colorado Springs to say for his ward that nobody but Rickard has any claim on Dempsey's fight services and that the title holder is chafing to fight.

Chicago loomed as the certain site of the match with the New York boxing commission's refusal to reconsider its pronouncement that Dempsey could enter the ring in that Commonwealth only against Harry Williams, negro brawler.

At news of the Gotham commission's confirmation of its earlier action, Rickard redoubled his efforts to select a site here, although he intimated that he had contemplated no reversal of its stand by the New York body.

"Dempsey wants to fight, and he wants to fight quick," said Normile. "If this doesn't go through, there are a couple of places that want the fight which will pay almost as much as we can get here."

One of these sites, he intimates, is La Jolla, Mexico, where he is sure Dempsey will fight this winter whether he fights before then or not.

Big Fight in September At Chi, Says Champ

Baltimore, Md., July 20 (By A. P.).—Capt. C. J. Mabbutt, recruiting officer of the Third army corps area, who accompanied the United States amateur boxers to South America last month, today received from Jack Dempsey the following telegram:

"I will fight Gene Tunney in Chicago in September. Want you to come to my camp. Expect to do some of my work at Fitzsimmons place in Benton Harbor, Mich. Feel fine."

Capt. Mabbutt is a personal friend of the champion.

Reds Beat Dodgers; 2 Players Banished

Cincinnati, July 20 (By A. P.).—Cincinnati won out in the ninth inning today by 5 to 4 and made it an even break on the four-game series with Brooklyn. Luque started the game but was forced to leave in the third after he had doubled and scored on two sacrifices, the heat and running around the bases proving too strenuous for him.

Donohue won the game in the ninth. He singled after two were out and came out with the winning run when Christensen singled and Jacobson fumbled. Third baseman Mariotti, of the Brooklyn team, and First-baseman Pipp, of the Cincinnati club, squared off and were going to fight in the fourth inning, but they were separated before any blows were struck. Both were ejected from the game. Pipp accused Mariotti of blocking the line while he was running to third base.

Hadley Shows Much Promise, According to Nats' Boss.

Tigers Will Be Here in Double Bill Today.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

PRESIDENT CLARK GRIFFITH has returned and disappointed everyone by not being the bearer of any good news. At the Nat stadium yesterday all he had to hand out was some cigars and some praise for Irving Hadley's chances of helping the Harbarmen in the 1927 season. Detroit in futures right now when Harris needs immediate help is like giving advice to a hungry man—there's not much nutrition in it.

The Washington club has come in for considerable criticism for cutting its mound staff down to the bone, but the Old Fox's explanation of this is simple and right to the point.

"The pitchers we let go were not earthy to us," he stated, "so they will not be missed much. This being the case, any youngsters we get will not do any worse, and by using them we may uncover one or two live ones."

Regarding another boxman whom Griff has promised, Harris, the Washington president, states that Scout Engel has lines on one or two, but no steps have been taken toward signing them. In the meantime the Barons have agreed that Curley Ogden may be retained until the situation here is relieved.

Speaking of Hadley, Griffith did not resist to say that, in his opinion, Bump is one of the best prospects in the minors and that he is almost sure to make good here next year. Lefty Thomas did not look so impressive to the Old Fox, apparently not having any more control now than when he was shunted to the benches.

Cobb's snarling Tigers will be here this afternoon, when they open a six-game stand with a double-header slated to get under way at 1:30 o'clock. Walter Johnson and Curley Ogden will do the flinging for the Harbarmen in today's twin bill, while Ty is liable to use any of several.

YESTERDAY'S GAME BETWEEN THE NATIONALS AND INDIANS WAS DECIDED in the visitors' sixth, when it looked as though Morrell never would be able to retire the side. That he finally did so is proven by the picture below, which shows Charlie Jamieson out stealing, Ruel to Manager Harris, after the Spokemen had registered seven times and run themselves ragged in the extreme heat.

MUNY SINGLE PLAY NEARS FINALS

Seeded Stars Still Fight Off Their Opponents.

DIVISIONAL singles finals in the public parks tennis championships will be played this afternoon in every section but Rock Creek, where play has not quite kept pace with the other parks. Play in doubles reached the second round in most instances yesterday and will go ahead at full speed from now on.

The seeded players continued to work their way down to the semi-finals and some of the best tennis of the tournament is expected this afternoon, when the favorites meet the strongest opposition that they have faced as yet.

THE feature match in the singles yesterday was staged at Henry park between Mitchell and Al Fowler. The Western High school tennis star was pushed to 10-8 before winning the first set.

The tournament committee announced yesterday that the finals in the singles would not be played until Sunday afternoon and the doubles would be brought to a close on Saturday. Yesterday's results and today's pairings follow:

AHEARN WINS BOUT WITH GARDNER

Crowd Boos Verdict in Special Bout 10 Minutes.

EITHER "Spencer" Gardner has gone back a thousand miles since his victories over Red Chapman or Washington's one of the lead featherweights in the country in Goldie Ahearn. Before more than 3,000 fans—the largest crowd of the season at Kenilworth—Ahearn scored in each of the twelve rounds to receive the unanimous decision of the judges. Not only did Ahearn fight, but at times he forced the visitor to do the holding, an art that Goldie did not resort to.

For the first six rounds Ahearn piled up a mountainous lead and the general impression was that Gardner was holding back. However, when the latter did open up he found a willing partner in the Jewish lad. Goldie stood toe to toe with his opponent, especially in the last round, and with few exceptions profited on each occasion.

GARDNER'S only bids for the honors came on right-hand smashes just before going into clinches. Ahearn withstood each attack however.

In all, the program was the best of the season. The only sour note was not caused by the fighters. After two bouts had been stopped in the first round, those in charge put on a special match involving Bud Logan, of Fort Myer, and Jimmie Mack, of the Mohawk club. After two waiting rounds Referee Short warned the pair to fight* hang up the gloves, whereupon Logan opened up with a terrific attack for the remainder, which had Mack in doubt as to which was his corner at the conclusion.

To the utter amazement of most of the fans, Mack was given the decision, said to have been a unanimous one and the crowd booted for ten minutes.

In the semifinal Eddie Buell demonstrated his superiority over Joey Kaplan, of Baltimore. Sammy Braunstein, service champion, knocked out Billy West in the first round.

Smith Holds Champions In Check

Uchrinsko Hurls for 3 Innings Without Allowing a Hit.

10 Men Face Morrell in Big Inning, Seven Scoring.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

FOR five innings yesterday pitcher Willard Morrell looked like the best pitcher in the world. Then, suddenly, the heat or something got to the Indians and they went crazy, pounding the rookie's slants all over the lot and cooling 7 run break a 2-all deadlock and gave them a 9-102 verdict.

Conservation seemed to be the middle names of Speaker's men in this fracas, for every third of their runs was used in through runs and only one runner was left on the sacks. After this deluge Harris found other duties for Morrell and turned the mound job over to Jimmy Uchrinsko, the McKeesport semipro, who hurled three hitless frames.

The performance of this lad was the only bright spot of the day for the Nationals. He showed signs of being a trifle, but he was to be expected, considering that he was working his first major league game. Jimmy passed a man each in the seventh and eighth and both times his nukes came through runs and twin-kills which wiped the sacks clean again. Of course, he can not expect such efficient cooperation all the time, but what he showed yesterday, he is not likely to show again when he once gets used to his big league uniform.

THE veteran southpaw, Uchrinsko, drew the mound assignment from Speaker, and he pitched exceptionally well, allowing but seven well-scattered hits. After his team jumped into a big lead, he just lobbed the ball to the Nats, but got by just the same.

An error gave the Indians a run in their second frame and paved the way for another, but as things turned out, one counter move of less meant nothing. Burns led off with a double and counted and J. Sewell kept on to second when the return throw from left following the Midget's one-shot batted ball. Burns then Lutzke prodded one through the box all the way to center field, bringing a second run home.

The Nats got one of these back in the second on J. Harris' scratch safety toward right, Bluege's sacrifice and Ruel's single, and knotted the count in the next round. S. Harris' one-shot batted ball, a topped safety to Lutzke and second. This success evidently turned his head for he attempted to pilfer third as Rice walked, and was nipped. They then tied San home but was left stranded.

WITH both pitchers hurling fine ball, the fans settled down, figuring on a pretty mound duel between the veteran and the youngster, but this did not last long. In the sixth the Indians gave a demonstration of Al Jolson's pet story about the bee which did not sting until he sat down.

They certainly "sat down" hard on Morrell and stung him at the tee, and Jamieson, up

TUBERCULOSIS FIGHT THROUGHOUT WORLD WILL BE HEARD HERE

National and International Authorities to Gather in the Capital.

MEETINGS SCHEDULED
FOR EARLY IN OCTOBER

Conventions Will Bring Noted Specialists of Europe
to Washington.

Latest reports from medical laboratories of the world on what is being accomplished in man's fight against tuberculosis will be brought to Washington by internationally known authorities in October, when the National Tuberculosis association and the International Union Against Tuberculosis meet here in convention.

The former body will meet at the Mayflower hotel from October 2 to 8 and the latter at the same hotel from September 30 to October 2. It will be the first time that the international union has met in this country. London and Lausanne being the convention cities in the past. Thirty-one foreign countries will be represented by about 150 physicians at the annual meeting. A total attendance of approximately 1,200 delegates is expected at the two conventions.

Heads Both Organizations.

Dr. Theobald Smith, of Princeton, N. J., who discovered the bovine variety of tuberculosis germ in 1896, is president of both the national and international bodies. He is also director of the animal research laboratories of the Rockefeller Institute. Dr. Smith will preside at the meetings.

Dr. Walter S. Ufford, secretary of the Washington Tuberculosis association, and Dr. George M. Kober, of this city, secretary of the national association, will participate in the convention.

Among outstanding physicians from Europe who will attend the two conventions will be Dr. Varier-Jones, of London; Dr. Jacobaeus, of Stockholm, Sweden; Sir Robert Phillip, of Edinburgh, Scotland; and Drs. Humbert, Gunn, Rist and Bernard, of Paris.

Literature About Washington.

C. E. LaVigne, director of the Washington Convention Bureau, yesterday sent to the director of the National Tuberculosis association in New York, literature on the National Capital to be distributed among the foreign delegates coming to the convention.

Meeting concurrently with the National Tuberculosis association will be the American Sanatorium association and a one-day conference, October 2, of the Southern Tuberculosis association, the latter meeting at the Washington hotel.

Home Robbed of Cash; Report Other Thefts

A thief gained his way into the home of Mrs. Dorothy Stickney, 1302 Fairmont street northwest, yesterday and made away with a pocketbook containing $50 in cash and important papers. Mrs. Stickney reported the robbery to Tenth precinct police.

Hugh Reid, proprietor of a tire shop at 207 New York avenue northwest, said that five tires, three inner tubes and other accessories, valued at approximately $100, were stolen. Mrs. Louis Dworkin, 1118 Sixth street northwest, reported the theft of her family wash. Alex S. Economon told police that tobacco valued at $30 and $10 in cash was stolen from his store at 43 Florida avenue northwest.

John Joy Edson Sued In Real Estate Deal

Harry V. Bouie, realtor, Transportation building, filed suit yesterday against John Joy Edson, banker, 915 F street northwest, to recover $5,000 which he says is due as commission on the sale of the Edson farm on the Rockville pike, which was purchased by Charles I. Corby.

Through Attorney Godfrey L. Munter, Mr. Bouie says he was engaged by Mr. Edson in the fall of 1924 to procure a purchaser for the farm at $120,000. He persuaded Senator Porter H. Dale, of Vermont, to buy and the senator was accepted by Mr. Edson as a purchaser. It is alleged. Later Mr. Edson released Senator Dale and sold to Mr. Corby. It is stated.

Fort Myer Students Plan Church Parade

The students of the citizens' military training camp stationed at Fort Myer, Va., will participate in a church parade at the camp at 9 o'clock Sunday. Both Protestant and Catholics in the camp will participate.

The polo field will be the scene of the Protestant service. Chaplain John T. Axton, Jr., will conduct the service, while Col. John T. Axton, sr., chief of army chaplains, will deliver the sermon. The Catholics will hear mass and a sermon by the Rev. Dawson Byrne, of Catholic university, in the post chapel.

Assault on Boy Denied.

Nathan Fanroff, 1601 Good Hope road southeast, who was sued for $5,000 damages for an alleged assault and battery upon 7-year-old Theodore Chick, filed his plea yesterday in circuit court through Attorney J. B. Stein and denied all of the charges against him. He says that he did not assault, kick, abuse or curse the Chick boy April 2, as alleged.

Court Again Refuses To Grant Dane Bail

Frank Dane, president of the National Capital Sporting club, who was sentenced to serve three years in prison last May by Justice Stafford in criminal court on a charge of violating the antiprize fight law, will have to stay in jail until the court of appeals chooses to order his release on bond, according to a ruling yesterday by Justice Hoehling.

Attorneys Lambert, Yeatman and Canfield, counsel for Dane, sought his release pending disposition of his appeal, and set up as one of the reasons the financial difficulties of Dane's wife and daughter. Assistant District Attorney Leo A. Rorer informed Justice Hoehling that Justice Stafford had already on four occasions refused to fix bond for Dane. Counsel for Dane will now take up the matter with the court of appeals.

COLUMBIA HEIGHTS BODY HOLDS OUTING TOMORROW

1,000 Are Expected to Attend
Picnic at Marshall Hall; Plans Completed.

PRIZES ARE ANNOUNCED

Arrangements for the outing of the Columbia Heights Business Men's association at Marshall Hall tomorrow were completed at a meeting of the association in the Tivoli building last night. Nearly 1,000 persons, including members of the Columbia Heights Citizens association, are expected to attend, according to the report of Clarence S. Youngblood, chairman of the ticket committee.

A feature of the outing will be a baseball game between the Hartford and Senators athletic clubs in the Midget league. The players will go to Marshall Hall as guests of the business men. A tug-of-war between the members of the business and citizens associations will be another feature.

Jerry Wolf and James Dewey, of the athletic committee, last night outlined a varied program of sports and contests for all who go on the excursion. A. T. Andrews of the committee on prizes reported that his committee had received an abundance of prizes from the Columbia Heights merchants.

Most of the excursionists will go on the steamer Charles Macalester, leaving the Seventh street wharf at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Many of the stores in Columbia Heights will close at 1 o'clock to permit employees to attend the outing. Return trips will be made by the boat at 5 and 9 p. m. William F. Dismar, president of the association, presided at the meeting last night. F. J. Schotke is general chairman in charge of the outing.

COMMISSIONERS HEAR MEAT RULE PROTEST

Dealers Say Glass Case Order Will Boost Price and Impose Hardship.

The commissioners yesterday heard protests from the Merchants and Manufacturers association in behalf of meat dealers against enforcement of the regulation requiring meat displayed for sale to be kept in glass cases at a temperature of 55 degrees.

Most of the excursionists will go on the steamer Charles Macalester, leaving the Seventh street wharf at 2:30 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Many of the stores in Columbia Heights will close at 1 o'clock to permit employees to attend the outing. Return trips will be made by the boat at 5 and 9 p. m. William F. Dismar, president of the association, presided at the meeting last night. F. J. Schotke is general chairman in charge of the outing.

Boy Sues for $50,000, Alleging Acid Burns

Eugene Bielaski, a minor, 3711 M street northwest, filed suit yesterday in circuit court against the People's Drug Stores, Inc., 2481 Eighteenth street northwest, to recover $50,000 damages for alleged sulphuric acid burns which he says he sustained August 10, 1925.

Through Attorney Robert E. Kline the plaintiff says he was delivering ice at the drug store and slipped on the cellar steps, and in slipping knocked over a 5-gallon bottle of the acid which deluged his left side, causing serious burns.

Disabled Fireman Retired.

The commissioners yesterday retired Sgt. H. W. Hollidge, of the fire department, on half pay for physical disability.

Son-in-Law Upheld By Wife's Mother

A mother testifying against her daughter in behalf of her son-in-law was the scene presented in police court yesterday before Judge John P. McMahon. Herman Barghausen, charged with assault upon his wife and destroying private property, told the court that he had seen his wife and another man on the second floor of the wife's home, and that when he tried to find the man he was mistreated. He denied having struck his wife, saying she had fainted in the excitement.

The mother testified that the "other man" had broken up the young couple and that the wife had phoned for her husband to come home on the evening of the fracas. The husband broke several door locks in his search. The assault charge was dismissed and he was fined $10 on the property charge.

DISTRICT DAY AT SESQUI PLANS ARE CONSIDERED

Committee of 100 Meets and Decides to Name Groups to Handle Affair.

BECK MAY BE SPEAKER

The first meeting of the full committee of 100 on District day at the sesquicentennial, October 6, met in the board room of the District building yesterday afternoon. Committees on finance, transportation, program and publicity were authorized to be appointed by the chairman, Commissioner Cuno H. Rudolph. Members of the four committees will be named within a few days.

Former Solicitor General James A. Beck was suggested as a good man for the principal speaker on District day. While this suggestion was not final, it met with the approval of those present.

Another suggestion endorsed yesterday was that emphasis should be placed on the fact that the District is without the franchise. This fact could be made known through the printed District day program, booklets, and also in the pageant which is being considered. Just what shape the pageant will take will be decided by the program committee when appointed.

The Marine band was suggested as the most suitable military band to play at Philadelphia on that day and efforts will be made to procure the services of that band.

Another suggestion made was that the Nationals play in Philadelphia October 6, if they are a contender for the world's series pennant this year.

J. H. Sayers, director of domestic participation and special events of the sesquicentennial, attended the meeting and told of what had been done at the exposition by other cities and made suggestions as to what Washington might do.

Representatives of the Baltimore & Ohio and Pennsylvania railroads promised that trains would be run direct to the exposition grounds on District day, providing sufficient patronage of their lines warranted it. They also said that a reduced fare would be offered under the same conditions.

Marlin A. Loess, vice chairman of the committee, presided and about 25 members attended.

OLD MASONIC TEMPLE IS BOUGHT BY LESSEE

Julius Lansburgh Furniture Co., Occupants, Purchase Building.

The Julius Lansburgh Furniture Co., Inc., has purchased the old Masonic temple at Ninth and F streets northwest. The building was purchased from the Masonic Hall association in accordance with an option taken by the furniture company when it moved into the building after extensive alterations about five years ago. The price was not made public. The deal was handled by Cromelin & Laws, attorneys.

The sale of the building, which was once one of the most popular dancing halls in the city, marks another epoch in its history. When the Masonic order outgrew the building and erected a new building at Thirteenth and H streets northwest the old one became a dance hall.

For it was occupied by Strayer's Business college, which also outgrew it and left. Then the old brown-stone building was remodeled, given a marble front and occupied by the furniture company.

Government Program Takes $100,000,000

Approximately $100,000,000 will be spent on Washington's governmental improvement program in the next ten years, according to present estimates, and subject to enactment of all proposed features of the present program which includes the following items and their present estimated costs:

COMMITTEE BEGINS WORK OF REDUCING PINEY BRANCH PLAN

Coordinating Body Starts Study to Cut Land Needed for Park.

OLMSTEAD PROPOSAL HELD MARKED SAVING

Group Rejects Realty Dealers' Suggestion to Close Luzon Avenue.

Study of the question of modification of Piney Branch parkway plans, suggested recently by F. H. Olmstead, Brookline, Mass., member of the National Capital park and planning commission, with a view toward reducing the amount of property included within the original taking lines, was undertaken by the coordinating committee of the commission at its meeting yesterday.

The committee will have the area staked off so its members may visualize the parkway under new lines as proposed by Mr. Olmstead. These would take only a small strip, including a roadway topping the Piney Branch sewer, a strip of land between that and Sixteenth street. It would mean a reduction of about 40 per cent of the original area, however, and a saving of about $80,000 in cost.

The committee considered the suggestion of certain real estate interests that Luzon avenue, which runs from a point south of Walter Reed hospital southwesterly to Sixteenth street, be eliminated from the highway plan, but rejected it, not being in favor of closing any highways bringing traffic out of or into Sixteenth street. This highway is merely on the plan and has not been opened.

Bell Makes Suggestions.

It took under consideration several suggestions by Lieut. Col. J. Franklin Bell, engineer commissioner for the District, for improving traffic conditions in the Northwest section, first and most important of which, and one to be considered immediately, is the elimination of two small circles at Harvard street between Sixteenth and the entrance to the zoo. Small circles are becoming more and more to be considered as impediments to traffic and creators of dangerous curves on steep grades.

Commissioner Bell also asked the committee to study the question of connecting Columbia road with Mount Pleasant street so that street car traffic between these two highways, as well as auto traffic, could be maintained without interfering with traffic on Sixteenth street, suggesting that the parkway at the northwest corner of this intersection be cut away. Strong opposition to this feature is anticipated, however.

The committee was further asked by Commissioner Bell to make a study of the possibility of providing additional through traffic plans on Florida avenue northward so as to relieve traffic now forced on to Sixteenth street. He suggested a study of Thirteenth, Fifteenth, Seventeenth, Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets with this objective in view.

The committee had under consideration final plans for proposed highway changes to be made the subject of a public hearing by the District commissioners August 9. These include the widening of Blair road, from Peabody to Underwood street; the widening of Conduit road 120 feet, from Georgetown reservoir to the District line; certain changes for the preservation of Sargent road and Queen Chapel road northeast; proposed changes in Wilson park immediately south of St. Elizabeth's hospital, and the extension of Branch avenue southeast, from Alabama avenue to the District line.

Juniors and Klan To Play Ball July 31

The annual baseball game between the Junior Order of the United American Mechanics and the Ku Klux Klan will be played at Clark Griffith's stadium July 31, at 3 o'clock.

Immediately preceding the game the uniformed patrol of the Grand Oriental court, No. 1, will give a fancy dance followed by the combined initiatory team of the Klan. The Daughters of Joab and the mixed initiatory and drill team of the Daughters of America will also give an exhibition drill. The clown band of the Junior Order will play.
